VOL. XXII.....NO. 6767. NEW-YORK, TUESDAY, MAY 27, 1873. PRICE FOUR CENTS.

THE FRENCH REPUBLIC.

Announcement of President MacMahon's Cabinet—Thiers Going Back to the Assembly—New Policy.

PARIS, May 26.—The new Ministry is announced this morning in the Journal Officiel. It is constituted as follows:

Minister of Foreign Affairs—Duke de Broglie.
Minister of Justice—M. Ernoul.
Minister of the Interior—M. Beulé.
Minister of Finance—M. Pierre Magne.
Minister of War—Gen. De Cissey.
Minister of Marine—Admiral D'Hornoy.
Minister of Public Instruction and Worship—M. Batbie.
Minister of Public Works—M. Deseilligny.
Minister of Agriculture and Commerce—M. Bouillerie.

There has been no disorder in any portion of the country in consequence of the announcement of the change in the Government. Dispatches from all sections report that tranquillity prevails. Only half of the troops are now held in their barracks.

M. THIERS TO RESUME HIS SEAT IN THE ASSEMBLY.

Ex-President Thiers has informed the members of the Left Centre that he will resume his seat in the Assembly to-morrow, and will take his place on their benches accompanied by the late Ministers Dufaure, Perier, and Leon Say.

The whole Left has decided upon a policy of constitutional opposition to the new Government.

MACMAHON'S FIRST MESSAGE.

President MacMahon sent a message to the Assembly to-day. It was read by the Duke de Broglie. The President says:

I am animated by respect for your wishes, and will always scrupulously execute them. The National Assembly had two great tasks—the liberation of territory and the restoration of order. The first was ably conducted by my predecessor, with heroic patience. The country and I rely on you to accomplish the other. I shall follow the foreign policy of my predecessor. I wish you peace and the reorganization of the army, desiring only to restore our strength and regain for France her rank among nations. The home policy will be resolutely conservative. The Administration must be imbued with a conservative spirit. I shall appoint to office respectors of the law, defend society against factions, and stand as a sentinel to see that your sovereign will is obeyed in its integrity.

HOW THE PRINCES VOTED.

The Orleans Princes were present in the Assembly when the question was taken on accepting President Thiers' resignation, and voted in the affirmative.

THE NEW MINISTRY.

Duc De Broglie, Minister of Foreign Affairs.

Charles Jacques Victor Albert, Duc de Broglie, the Minister of Foreign Affairs, is the eldest son of the late eminent French statesman, Achille Charles Léonce Victor, Duc de Broglie, who died on Jan. 25, 1870. He is of Italian origin, and his family went to France in the suite of Mazarin. The present Duke was born in Paris on June 13, 1821, and was educated in the University of Paris, where he rose to great distinction, and at an early age gained a high reputation as a publicist. He is descended from a family which, during the last century, alone counted three field marshals on its roll. His father was a proved Liberal, and his grandfather, Prince Victor de Broglie, perished at the guillotine for his love of freedom. While the late Duke was sitting in the Legislative Assembly, in 1848, on the benches of the Moderate Royalists, his eldest son, the present Duke, started in journalism as one of the principal editors of the Correspondant, in which journal he defended Catholic interests and the doctrines of moderate constitutional liberalism. Prior to the revolution of 1848 he was Secretary of the French embassies at Rome and Madrid: but the political overturn of that period caused him to retire from public life, as his political opinions were totally opposed to the Napoleonic dynasty. The coup d'état of 1852 completely upset all his aspirations, and although Napoleon III. endeavored by every means in his power to secure the good feelings and co-operation of the Broglie family, he always failed. It is said that the late Duke was offered by the late Emperor a seat in the Senate, and his heir, the present Duke, was promised a position either as Councillor of State, Official Deputy or Minister Plenipotentiary. All these inducements were rejected, and in consequence of this refusal, although remaining inactive, they fell under the secret ban. The correspondence between father and son was opened in the postal "Cabinet Noir," then under the control of M. Janvier, and in 1861 the police seized all the lithograph copies of a paper written by the late Duke for private circulation, expressing his views of the Government of France. Still Napoleon III. endeavored to secure an alliance with the Broglie family, for he feared their influence; and when the present Duke, in 1870, succeeded to his father's title, the Emperor offered him a diplomatic post of honor. He, however, declined to accept the position, as he had but little faith in the sudden change of the Imperial ruler on the question of Parliamentary reform. When, however, the Empire died with the capture of the Emperor at Sedan by the Germans, the Duc de Broglie again appeared on the political arena, and was, in 1871, elected a Deputy for the Department of the Eure. On Feb. 19, 1871, President Thiers appointed the Duke an Ambassador Extraordinary to the Court of St. James, at London, which position he held until May 1, 1872, when he resigned, since which time he remained politically inactive, until called to take a part in the present French Cabinet.

The Duc de Broglie was married on the 19th of June, 1845, to Mlle. Pauline Eléonore di Galard de Béarn, by whom he has had five sons. He has written a number of able works, between the years 1846 and 1866, the principal one of which, L'Eglise et L'Empire Romain au Quatrième Siècle, was published in six volumes, during the year 1856, and subsequently passed through five editions. A vacancy having been occasioned during 1862 in the French Academy by the death of Father Lacordaire, he was elected a member of that body, and was highly esteemed by those with whom he associated.

Gen. de Cissey, Minister of War.

Ernest-Louis-Octave Courtet de Cissey is a Parisian by birth, and a scion of a noble family of Burgundy. He was born in 1812, and entered the military school of St. Cyr toward the close of 1830, and in two years passed to the practice school of the staff. He was appointed lieutenant in 1835, and attached to the staff of Gen. Trezel. He served with distinction in Africa, was decorated with the cross of the Legion of Honor after the taking of Constantine, and promoted to a staff captaincy in July, 1839. He afterward signalized himself at the taking of Mouzaia, at Militanah, at Maskara, at Isly, and in other conflicts with the Arabs, and was frequently mentioned in the orders of the day of the army. He was made major (chef d'escadron) in 1849, lieutenant colonel in 1850, and colonel two years afterward. He served in the Crimean war, and took part in the battle of Inkermann, at the close of which he was made brigadier general in 1854. He was promoted to general of division in August, 1863, and received the command of the Sixteenth, the centre of which was at Rennes. He was made an officer of the Legion of Honor in 1849, commandant in 1858, and grand officer in 1867. He served in the war with Prussia, which proved so disastrous to the arms and the prestige of France, with the courage and fortitude which marked the French officers, but in this no laurels were won except by one side.

M. Magne, Minister of Finance.

Pierre Magne, Minister of Finance, was born at Perigueux, on Dec. 3, 1806, and is consequently over sixty-six years of age. He is a member of a comparatively obscure family. At an early age he manifested a preference for the law, and in 1831 became an avocat. He was introduced to public life in Paris by Marshal Bugeaud. The founder of his political fortunes is said to be M. Fould, who remarked with pleasure his administrative ability. He became a member of the Constituent and Legislative Assemblies, but did not occupy any leading position as a debater, but his practical speeches, whenever made, were always listened to with attention. M. Magne retired to private life in 1848, but in November, 1849, he accepted the office of Under Secretary of State for Finances. He retained the position until April 16, 1851, when he became Minister of Public Works. This position he held with the exception of an interval of a few months at the end of 1851, until the year 1854, and it is generally admitted that his administration was successful in every way. During his ministry he was enabled to conclude many important conventions with the great roadway companies, and during his career of office he made a personal inspection, not only of all the railroads of France, but also those of other countries, with the object of enabling him to avail himself of the improvements noticed on his tour. He was Minister of Finance from 1854 to November, 1860, giving the greatest satisfaction to the country and to the Emperor. In December, 1860, he became Minister without a portfolio, but retired in March, 1863, and was named a member of the Privy Council on April 1. He was again appointed Finance Minister on Nov. 13, 1867, and retained that position until the advent to power of M. Ollivier, in January, 1870, when he was replaced by M. Buffet. He was made Senator in 1852; Commander of the Legion of Honor Oct. 29, 1851, and Grand Cross Aug. 4, 1854.

Anselme Polycarpe Batbie, Minister of Public Instruction.

The new Minister of Public Instruction and Worship is a lawyer and a writer on jurisprudence of some prominence. He was born at Seissan, in May, 1828, and received the degree of Doctor from the Faculty of Law of Paris, in August, 1850. He was not included in the reorganization of the Council of State after the events of 1851, but in the following year he was a candidate for nomination to one of the assistant professorships in the Faculty of Law, and was successful. He was first attached to the Faculties of Dijon and Toulouse, and in 1857 he became Assistant Professor to the Faculty of Paris. In 1862 he was charged with a course of administrative law, of which chair he afterward became the incumbent. While in Toulouse, in 1854 and 1856, he delivered a course of lectures on public and administrative law compared, and was elected a member of the Academy of Legislation in that city, in the journal of which he published a memoir on the Forum Judicum of the Visigoths. In 1860 M. Batbie was charged by M. Rouland, Minister of Public Instruction, to visit the universities of Belgium, Holland, and Germany, to study their organization and system of instruction in public and administrative law. The same year the Academy of Moral and Political Sciences awarded him the Faucher prize for a memoir on the life and works of Turgot, and the essay was afterward published under the title of Turgot, Philosopher, Economist, and Administrator. In 1861 he began the publication of A Treatise on the Theory and Practice of Public and Administrative Law, in six volumes, which was completed in 1863, and in the mean time the Academy of Sciences twice awarded him premiums—the Beaujour prize for a memoir on the institutions of popular credit, and one of the ordinary prizes of the year for an essay on loan and interest. Numerous other works on jurisprudence bear the name of M. Batbie. In 1866, immediately after the establishment of the law faculties at Douay and Nancy, he published a long article in the Revue Critique de Législation, on the danger to the study of law from the establishment of new faculties in the provinces. M. Batbie has been decorated with the Cross of the Legion of Honor. He was elected a member of the Provisional Assembly on the collapse of the Empire, and more recently was a member of the Committee of Thirty chosen several months ago to report to the Assembly constitutional provisions on the powers of the Executive.

M. Beulé, Minister of the Interior.

Charles Ernest Beulé, the new Minister of the Interior, is now forty-seven years of age, having been born at Saumur in 1826. He is an archæologist of high repute, and was educated at the Normal School, where he spent the three years intervening between 1845 and 1848. He filled the chair of rhetoric at Moulins with great ability, and was afterward removed to the French School at Athens. While connected with this institution his archæological discoveries attracted so much attention that a new interest became centred in the school, and the idea which had been entertained of breaking up the establishment was not only abandoned, but renewed efforts were made to place the institution upon a better footing. In 1853 he returned to France, and on receiving the degree of Doctor, was appointed the year following to succeed M. Raoul-Rochette as Professor of Archæology in the the Bibliothèque Impériale, and was decorated with the Cross of the Legion of Honor. In 1860 M. Beulé was elected a member of the Académie des Inscriptions et Belles-Lettres in the place of M. Lenormant, and two years afterward he was elected perpetual Secretary to the Academy of Fine Arts, and at the reorganization of the School of Fine Arts in 1863, he entered a strong protest against the new condition of affairs at that time. M. Beulé is an author of very high attainments in archæological science, and from 1853, when his first book appeared, he has contributed numerous valuable and interesting works upon his favorite study. Two of his works, L'Acropole d'Athènes, and Etudes sur le Peloponnèse, were published by order of the Minister of Public Instruction. He also caused some very important excavations to be made upon the ruins of Carthage, which rendered invaluable service to the study of archæological science.

The Labor Reform League and the Massachusetts Bible Society Anniversaries.

BOSTON, May 26.—The annual meeting of the Labor Reform League commenced yesterday afternoon, in Nassau Hall, Col. William B. Green acting as chairman. The attendance was quite large. H. H. Heywood made the introductory speech and read a series of resolutions, after which they were discussed by Richard Henchcliff, editor of the Lawrence Journal; Stephen P. Andrews, of New-York; Col. Green, Benjamin Skinner, of Acton; Mrs. E. L. Daniels, of New-York, and others. At the evening session the discussion was continued by Mrs. Jennie Patterson, Prof. Denton, Dr. F. A. Palmer, John Orvis, and S. P. Andrews, of New-York. No action was taken on the resolutions. The Convention adjourned until to-day.

The annual meeting of the Massachusetts Bible Society was held at their rooms this morning, President Samuel H. Walley, presiding. The report of the trustees showed that during the year the society had issued 26,557 volumes, of which 6,386 were gratuitously distributed. The report stated that the work of the society had declined in every department, which is due mainly to the unfavorable location of the rooms of the society. From the report of the treasurer it appears that the invested funds amount to $22,617 50; receipts from all sources, $26,936 69; expenditures, $25,835 31, including for Bibles and Testaments, $10,836 74; amount invested, $5,650; amount donated, $3,606 30, to the American Bible Society, leaving on hand, $1,101 38. It was voted to authorize the trustees to use their discretion in regard to building or leasing suitable quarters. Officers for the ensuing year were then elected.

VIENNA, May 26.—The King of the Belgians has arrived in this city, and been received by the court with fitting ceremonies. The King to-day visited the exhibition.

Voting the Alabama Award in the British House of Commons.

LONDON, May 26.—The House of Commons to-night, while in Committee of Supply, took up the item for the payment of the Alabama award.

Mr. Bentinck declared the Government policy on this question had been humiliating and degrading. The Government should have broken off the negotiations at a time when no sense of shame would have been left England. This arbitration was the greatest monument of human folly, and could not be considered otherwise than as a national degradation.

Sir Stafford Northcote admitted that during the negotiation of the treaty he had not minutely examined the consequences for British subjects of fixing the end of the war at Lee's surrender.

Mr. Gladstone said the advancement of the indirect claims by the American Government was a gigantic error. In all other respects he defended the course the Arbitrators had taken.

The debate here closed, and the item was agreed to.

Guatemala Revolutionists Buying a Steamer—The Steamer Virginius.

ASPINWALL, May 20, (via Jamaica.)—The Guatemala revolutionists have purchased the steamer General Sherman, with a cargo of war material.

The steamer Virginius has been bought by the Colombian Government.

MACKENZIE'S RAID.

Excitement on the Mexican Side—Indians and Mexicans Vowing Vengeance.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, May 26.—The following was received last night from the Rio Grande:

Nothing extraordinary has transpired since the raid.

Gen. McKenzie reached Fort Clark with his command and prisoners last Wednesday. The prisoners were forwarded to San Antonio on Thursday, guarded by a company, and will probably arrive to-day.

The excitement on the Mexican side was great when the news was received of McKenzie's movement. The population was greatly indignant. A large force was organized, and couriers sent to the interior towns calling for volunteers to intercept McKenzie, but he was too quick for them, and recrossed the river safely.

The guide, Juan Green, arrived at Fort Clark on Thursday evening. He reports the Indians are assembling on the bank of the river, vowing destruction to residents on the Texas side, and notifying Mexicans living on the Texas side to vacate their ranches and to cross the river, lest they be murdered. It is also reported that Lipan Indians from Remalina Reservation are assembling 300 strong, contiguous to the Rio Grande, ostensibly for treaty purposes with the Mexicans, but the inference on this side is widely different from above reports. It is but natural that the people living on the frontier should have grave apprehensions. The settlers in most exposed localities are already removing their families, and doubtless some settlements would be vacated altogether but for the protection offered them by the military. Troops are now stationed at the most important crossings. Those remaining at Clark are getting in readiness to proceed to any point at a moment's notice.

The action of Gen. McKenzie gives assurance of full protection. Probably the excitement among the Mexicans will subside, as it is reported that Gens. Fauchan, Rodriguez, and other leaders among the Mexicans on the frontier are exercising their influence to keep the peace, not only arguing the question of the United States troops crossing the river after hostile Indians, but actually favoring the co-operation of the Mexican forces with them when attacking Indians on their camping grounds.

An Important Decision—The Excise Law of 1870.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., May 26.—Justice Hardin, of the Supreme Court, rendered an important decision to-day as to the meaning of section 2 of the general Excise law of 1870. The effect of his decision is, that the Mayors of all the cities of the State, except New-York and Brooklyn, have power under said section to appoint Commissioners of Excise, and are not required to nominate said commissioners to the Board of Aldermen or Common Council. The question came into the court in this wise: On the 7th of April Mayor Wallace, of this city, appointed gentlemen as Excise Commissioners. The old board refused to surrender their books and continued to act, claiming that the new board, not having been confirmed by the Board of Aldermen, was not a legal board, and consequently the old board, acting under the advice of Ex-Judge Comstock, claimed to hold the power. The new board, by the consent of the Attorney General obtained a writ quo warranto, and the question was argued on Friday last, before Justice Hardin, who to-day gave a written decision sustaining the position of Mayor Wallace.

The Arkansas Troubles—Report on the Hempstead Disturbances.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., May 26.—The Commissioners appointed by Gov. Baxter to inquire into the alleged disturbance in Hempstead County, have returned and made a report to the Governor. While the report has not yet been given to the public, it is understood, the Commissioners state, that after a session of nearly two weeks at Washington, the capital of Hempstead County, they were unable to discover anything that partook of the nature of a conspiracy against any official; that Judge Kingston presided over a session of the Circuit Court during the time, and not the slightest ill-feeling was manifested by the members of either political party.

ALBANY.

The Supplemental Charter Bill—Lively Debate in the Assembly—Outstanding Claims—The Police Bill.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

ALBANY, May 26.—There was a full house this evening. The Charter Supplemental bill was considered in committee, printed copies of it having been distributed a few minutes before the bill was taken up. No amendment was offered till the section relating to the Fire Department was reached. A sudden dispute started up over this between Mr. Husted and Mr. Opdyke. The former moved that the qualification of membership should be changed from one year's residence in the "City" to the same in the "State." Mr. A. B. Cornell opposed this, and Mr. Opdyke also, the latter speaking some very plain words about the matter. The motion was carried, however, by a large majority, and then Mr. Ray, of Columbia, moved to strike out the clause requiring all members of the department to "read and write understandingly in the English language." Mr. Opdyke supplemented this by moving to strike out the words, "Or who has ever been convicted of crime," so as to give an opportunity to the constituents of the gentleman from Westchester to get appointed. Mr. Husted was so indignant as to assert, rather excitedly, that if the gentleman from New-York desired to insult him, the proper place to do this was outside the chambers. Mr. Opdyke subsequently withdrew his motion, and Mr. Ray's was voted down. The Department of Buildings was restored, by an amendment of Mr. Husted's, to nearly the same condition as before its modification by the charter.

When the bill was read through, a movement took place which somewhat surprised the House. Solon Smith offered an additional section, which proved to be nothing but the oft-defeated scheme of making the office of Controller elective, the Controller to be elected at the next general election. Mr. Cornell rose and indignantly denounced the proposed amendment, exposing its true character as a covert attempt to legislate the present Controller out of office.

Mr. Blumenthal seconded and complimented the speaker, and showed that this same scheme had been thoroughly discussed, and as thoroughly beaten, when the charter was under discussion. Mr. Peter Woods also vigorously opposed the amendment, making the best speech on it he has made this session. Mr. Smith said that the Republican Committee had passed resolutions approving the object proposed in the amendment, and that it met the approval of the majority of the citizens of New-York. Another member, evidently fearing that the House might adopt the amendment, moved to amend making the first election of Controller take place in 1875. This amendment Mr. Smith accepted, and the question was put to the House. Eighteen voted in the affirmative and thirty-two in the negative. An attempt was afterward made to raise the salaries of the Aldermen to $5,000, which failed, and another by Mr. Burns to give the District Justices $8,000 instead of $6,000, which was adopted, but afterward struck out. In the House the bill was ordered to a third reading.

OTHER CITY BILLS.

The bill for settling the outstanding claims against the City, which includes the appropriations for the work in the parks, was also ordered to a third reading. Subsequently the Police bill was advanced to the same stage. The qualification for appointment to the force was changed as in the other bill to residence in the State, not in the City. The reason for the great unanimity of the provincial members in favor of this motion was revealed by Mr. Abbot in opposing it. He stated that it was customary to hawk appointments on the force about the House for the purpose of influencing legislation; that he had had such appointments offered to him as an inducement for his vote, and he thought it was high time the practice should stop. All the City members voted in the negative, but were outnumbered. The stationery and printing section was amended on motion of Mr. Smith, Mr. Blumenthal vainly endeavoring to defeat it.

BUSINESS IN THE SENATE.

In the Senate the bill amending the statute of limitation, extending the time within which indictments may be brought from three to five years, was lost for lack of seventeen votes. Senators Benedict and O'Brien were away, and only fifteen votes could be found for it in their absence. Mr. James Wood championed the bill, and on his motion a reconsideration was laid on the table.

WASHINGTON MARKET.

The Washington Market bill was ordered to a third reading.

Both House and Senate transacted much general business to-night, and did not adjourn till nearly 12 P. M.

Dispatch to the Associated Press.

SENATE.

The Senate met at 7:30 P. M.

Mr. Harrower introduced a bill to amend the charter of Elmira, Chemung County, which was ordered to a third reading by unanimous consent and passed.

BILLS LOST.

The following bills were lost, the vote reconsidered, and laid on the table:

Amending the charter of the United States Loan and Security Company.

GENERAL BUSINESS.

The Senate concurred in the resolution appropriating $3,000 for a full-length portrait of Abraham Lincoln for the Governor's room in the Capitol.

The bills providing for awards of the Canal Appraisers for the support of the Government, and providing for bulkheads opposite Joralemon-street, Brooklyn, were ordered to a third reading.

The Supply bill was put on its third reading.

Mr. Tiemann moved to recommit the bill for the purpose of inserting $20,000 for the Foundling Asylum under the care of the Sisters of Charity in New-York. Lost—yeas 7, nays 13.

Mr. J. Wood moved to recommit bill for purpose of inserting $20,000 for the Elmira Reformatory. Lost—8 to 13.

The bill was then passed; yeas 22.

A motion to adjourn at 10:20 was lost, and the Senate resolved itself into a Committee of the Whole on the Washington Market bill.

Mr. Woodin moved to amend that the three appraisers of the market property be appointed by the Commissioners of the Sinking Fund.

The amendment was adopted.

Mr. Madden moved to further amend that the Commissioners of the Sinking Fund themselves shall have charge of the leasing.

The bill, as it came from the House, with Mr. Woodin's amendment, was then carried, and the bill ordered to a third reading.

Adjourned.

ASSEMBLY.

The Assembly met at 7:30 P. M.

On motion of Mr. Husted, the communication was referred to the Judiciary Committee.

A message was read from the Senate announcing the non-concurrence of that body with the Assembly amendments to the Constitutional amendments, and asking for a conference committee, which was ordered and appointed.

THE ERIE DIVIDEND.

Attorney General Barlow, who was called upon by the resolution of the House for his opinion whether the dividend by the Erie Railroad Company on fraudulently issued stock could be legally paid out of the treasury of the company, and whether the company could not be restrained from paying it, submitted a report. After stating the case as charged, he says: Before such a state of facts there can be no doubt that the transaction and the issuing of the bonds and their conversion into stock was illegal, fraudulent, and void. The statute, he says, contemplates a bona fide borrowing of money upon bonds for certain specified purposes, and the element of convertibility to stock was added as a mere means of increasing the value of the bonds; but he says there is difficulty in reaching a remedy. He then proceeds to show that it would not now be possible to discriminate which is the stock tainted and which is not. The difficulty, he says, is not in the law of the case, but in the facts, or rather in the proof of the facts. He has no hesitation in saying that the company cannot rightfully pay these dividends on such fraudulently-issued stock as can be identified and traced into the hands of persons who took it with knowledge of the fraud. But the difficulties of proof above referred to, are so great that such a suit would be practically useless. The same difficulty is stated to be in the way of action concerning the overissue of convertible bonds, and though he is of opinion that a suit would fail of any practical results, still, he says, he will cheerfully undertake it if directed by the Legislature. He also suggests that even if this stock were canceled the dividends would amount to the same, as there is no law limiting the dividends which railroad corporations are allowed to pay to any percentage on the capital stock. The company could and would exact the same rate of fare and pay increased dividends on the diminished aggregate of stock. He closes by saying the only remedy for such violations of the law, if it can be called a remedy, is the criminal punishment of the guilty officers of the railroad and the summary proceedings of a forfeiture of the charter; and it is no doubt competent for the Legislature to limit by law the scales of fare and freight, and thus effectually set bounds to the amount of dividends which shall be paid on this stock.

CHARTER AMENDMENTS.

The House went into committee on the bill to amend the New-York Charter, as to the term of office of aldermen, their number, and regulating their proceedings; also various other governmental regulations.

On motion of Mr. Husted the provision restricting the appointment of policemen to persons who have resided in the City one year was stricken out.

On motion of Mr. Husted the amendment transferring the power of the Superintendent of Buildings to the Surveyor of Buildings was stricken out.

Mr. Burns moved to make the salaries of justices of the district courts $8,000 instead of $6,000. Carried.

Mr. Smith moved an amendment providing for the election of Controller of the City in 1873.

Mr. A. B. Cornell hoped the amendment would not prevail. The object of it was simply to lessen the term of the present Controller one year.

Mr. Smith defended his amendment, saying it was recommended by the Reform Association.

Mr. A. B. Cornell moved to amend so as to have the election take place, if at all, in 1874.

Mr. Smith accepted this amendment, and then it was rejected by the House.

Mr. Healey moved a provision authorizing the corporation counsel to appoint a marshal and designating his duties. Lost.

The bill was then ordered to a third reading.

THE MANHATTAN SHIP CANALS.

After the adoption of the motion by Mr. Opdyke, restoring the clause making salaries of judges of district courts $6,000, the same committee took up the bill to incorporate the Manhattan Ship-canal Company, to run from the North to the East River.

Mr. Deering moved to strike out the enacting clause, saying the Central Park Commissioners had been authorized by a law of the Legislature to improve this water-way, and it had been declared a public highway open to the use of everybody, without charge of toll.

Mr. Husted explained that this bill did not propose to touch either Spuyten Duyvil Creek or Harlem River. Both these streams belong to the General Government, and this State has nothing to do with them, so no law could have been passed by this Legislature declaring them a public way. This bill incorporates a company to dig and construct a canal across the island south of both Spuyten Duyvil Creek and the Harlem River. Without taking action, on the question, the committee reported progress, and then the bill was ordered to a third reading.

The same committee took up a bill to amend the charter of the City of Troy, which was ordered to a third reading.

ANOTHER VETO.

The Governor returned the bill making an appropriation of $10,000 for the improvement of Grass River and its tributaries without his approval.

He says there were appropriations of $10,000 made in each of the years of 1871 and 1872; that there is now in the hands of the Controller the $10,000 appropriated last year unused, and the effect of this appropriation would be to provide for use this year $20,000. He does not think this bill would have passed if this fact was known.

The Governor then proceeded to say that if these appropriations were not made the improvements they are for would be made by the owners of the timber land along which the streams run, and the effect of these appropriations was to take money out of the State Treasury and put it into the pockets of the lumbermen. The Governor pursues this line of argument at some length, showing the injustice of using the public money for private interests.

On motion of Mr. Moore the message and the bill were laid aside, owing to the absence of Mr. Lynde, who had charge of the bill.

MISCELLANEOUS MATTERS.

The same committee took up the bill making further provision for the payment of the expenses of the local government of the City of New-York. The bill provides for the paying of judgments obtained against the City.

While considering the bill it was found there was not a quorum present, and the committee rose and reported that fact to the House.

The Speaker directed that the roll be called, and sixty-six members answered to their names—being a quorum.

Mr. Opdyke moved that the bill be ordered to a third reading. Carried.

The same committee took up the bill to extend the tracks of the Atlantic-avenue Railroad, Brooklyn, through Buffalo and other avenues. Ordered to a third reading.

The same committee took up the bill to amend the New-York Charter by making provision for the appointment and regulation of the Police Department.

Mr. C. G. Cornell moved to strike out the provision that policemen may be appointed from the State at large, and have them selected from the City. Carried.

Mr. Smith moved an amendment, the effect of which was to allow the Board of Police to order the printing it has to be done. Carried.

The bill was then reported to the House.

Mr. Blumenthal moved to recommit the bill with instructions to strike out the latter amendment. Lost.

The bill was then ordered to a third reading.

Adjourned.

The Local Prohibition Bill.

ALBANY, N. Y., May 26.—At a meeting of the temperance men from various sections of the State, held here to-day, and presided over by Edward Crummey, of Poughkeepsie, late Grand Worthy Patriarch of the Grand Division of the Sons of Temperance for Eastern New-York, the following resolution was unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That while we heartily approve the civil damage feature of Mr. Buckley's bill, now before the Assembly, we as strongly disapprove of that other measure which, proposing conformity to Gov. Dix's recent veto message, is so constructed as to give special opportunity and preference to dealers in beverages that, being most freely indulged in, are the most costly, debasing, and ruinous of all in general use, and which, as all kinds of liquors, whether licensed or not, will be sold in beer shops, and in the name of beer and ale will, in effect, open the door for the indiscriminate traffic in ardent spirits, under cover of so-called lighter beverages, which many persons will favor, because of their alleged harmlessness, and we frankly say for ourselves, and believe that in so saying we speak the general temperance sentiment of the State, that we decidedly prefer no legislation to legislation so compromising and so likely to produce new evils, without materially diminishing old ones.

THE PRESBYTERIANS.

Tenth Day's Session of the General Assembly at Baltimore.

BALTIMORE, Md., May 26.—The tenth day's session of the Presbyterian General Assembly was opened at 9 o'clock this morning with prayer by Rev. Edward R. Geary, of Oregon. The report of the Committee on Narrative was submitted and considered. The report embraces the whole field of the church, its progress, condition, &c., concluding with a list of the ministers who have died during the past year. After its reading the assembly engaged in prayer, offered by the venerable Samuel Lawrence. The report was then adopted. The Special Committee, to whom was referred the report and accompanying resolutions of the Committee on a Book of Praise, submitted a majority and a minority report, the first recommending the adoption by the assembly of the report and the resolutions, and the minority recommending the continuance of the Committee on a Book of Praise for further consideration of the subject. The report and resolutions of the committee were given in the proceedings of the 17th inst.

It is stated in brief that the work had been completed by Rev. Joseph T. Duryea, of New-York, and the principal accompanying resolution was that the committee be authorized to proceed with the work, and that under the direction of the committee the Board of Publication stereotype and publish the same without waiting for the further submission of its parts to the assembly. After considerable debate the majority report was adopted.

A resolution providing for the discontinuance of the Committee on Manses was adopted.

Reports were made from the Committee on Bills and Overtures on a number of overtures from various presbyteries relative to the transfer of churches, boundary lines of synods, and the care of emigrants at Castle Garden, New-York, Baltimore, and other prominent emigrant ports, &c.

An overture relative to the union with the General Synod of the Reformed Church was reported, with a resolution that a committee of nine be appointed, to meet a similar committee from the General Synod of the Reformed Church, to confer on the practicability and desirability of a union between the two churches, and to report at the next General Assembly. Adopted.

Rev. Dr. McGill, of New-Brunswick, was proceeding to address the assembly on rotary eldership, when the hour of noon arrived, and the assembly adjourned until 9 o'clock to-morrow morning.

This afternoon having been designated for an excursion to Annapolis, nearly the entire assembly, accompanied by a large number of ladies, then proceeded to Light-street wharf, and took a boat for Annapolis.

No Union of the Churches North and South.

BALTIMORE, May 26.—A number of private letters which have been received here from leading members of the Southern Presbyterian Assembly lately in session at at Little Rock, indicates that the Southern Assembly was almost unanimously averse to a union with the Northern Church. They received the overtures of the Northern Assembly with coldness, and, while they considered the subject of union with some other body, their general impression was toward a consolidation with the Dutch Reform Church. Some of the leading men were inclined to accept the overtures of the Northern Assembly, but they were so overruled that they were obliged to abandon their own ideas in favor of reunion. They have written to the Assembly here regretting that the project has failed for the present and hoping that it may be renewed with more success in the future. There is much regret in the Assembly here that this offer for reunion has failed, but there is also a sentiment that they have done all they properly can and that the next proffer must come from the South.

The Modocs—Capt. Jack's Whereabouts—Military Orders.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 26.—The reports from Fairchild's state that Capt. Jack is north of the Pitt River country with twenty-five warriors, who say they will die with their rifles in their hands. Gen. Davis has ordered the troops to go in pursuit of the savages.

Gen. Gillem has been ordered to proceed to the head-quarters of his regiment, at Benecia.

Col. Wheaton has been reinstated.

It is thought that half a dozen more Modocs were lately near the camp, waiting to surrender.

The savages who are still free have broken into small bands. The movements of the soldiers will be made accordingly.

Three More Bodies from the Atlantic Wreck—A Singular Claim.

HALIFAX, N. S., May 26.—H. M. S. Cherub arrived here from Bermuda yesterday. The French war vessels D'Estaing and Toussaint have arrived at Sydney, C. B., where the French Admiral was expected yesterday.

Three bodies, two males and one female, were recovered from the Atlantic wreck on Wednesday. On Thursday a body was seen wedged in among the débris of the wreck. It is supposed to be that of Mr. Fisher, of Vermont. An effort will be made to recover it. The schooner Annie Brown, chartered by the New-York Wrecking Company, to carry a cargo of goods from the wreck, has been seized by orders of the Vice Admiralty Court, at the suit of Edward Ryan, James Coulen, and others, of Prospect, who claim $8,000 as compensation for saving life and property at the time of the wreck.

The Cornell University Investigation.

ALBANY, N. Y., May 26.—The Governor has appointed the following commissioners, under a resolution of the Legislature, to examine into the condition of the college land grant, so-called: Horatio Seymour, of Oneida; Wm. A. Wheeler, of Franklin; John D. Van Buren, of New-York.

The Stokes Case.

ALBANY, N. Y., May 26.—The Stokes case was argued in the Court of Appeals to-day by Lyman Tremaine for Stokes, and B. K. Phelps, District Attorney, for the people.

The Prohibitory Liquor Law in Massachusetts.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., May 26.—The City Council this evening passed an order in response to a petition signed by 675 citizens directing the City Marshal to enforce strictly the provisions of the amended Prohibitory Liquor law. In consequence of this action one of the City Marshal's bondsmen has withdrawn from his bond, and the other expresses his intention to do likewise.

WASHINGTON.

Religious Toleration with the Indians—Col. Grant Ordered to the Yellowstone—Mackenzie's Raid.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 26.—The following letter from Commissioner Smith, of the Indian Office, is not only of interest to religious denominations, but being himself a warm Congregationalist, shows that he has wisdom and sound sense:

WASHINGTON, May 26, 1873.

SIR: Referring to your letter of May 25, stating that there are thirty or more Catholic Indians on the reservation, and that their Priest has asked permission to hold religious ceremonies in the school-house, which was promptly refused him; also, that their request to erect a church ten or twelve miles from the agency was refused, and that of late the priest has been holding Catholic services among the Indians, and to your inquiry, "Have I the right, this being a Presbyterian agency and mission, to exercise such control over the morals of this people as will enable me to prohibit the teaching the Catholic faith, or the holding Catholic service among them, even though the Indians desire it and clamor for it?" I have to say that the fact that your agency is under the charge of the Presbyterian Church does not warrant any intolerant exercise of power, and that while it is desirable in all cases that the mission work should be done under the direction of the religious body nominating the agent, yet where there are persons that have another faith, and desire religious services of their own, it is not in accordance with public policy or the spirit of religious toleration to forbid or hinder such services in any way. If it is not desirable to hold any religious service in the school-house, and your refusal was on that ground, it is justified, otherwise not. It is believed such arbitrary prohibition would work more harm than the division of feeling likely to result from the working of more than one mission on the same reservation.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,
E. P. SMITH.

To J. B. Monteith, United States Indian Agent, Lapwai, Idaho Territory.

COL. FRED. GRANT.

Gen. Sheridan has detailed Lieut. Col. Fred. Grant from his staff to accompany Gen. Stanly on his Yellowstone expedition through the country of the warlike Sioux. Col. Grant is ordered to report forthwith at Fort Rice, Dakota Territory, the head-quarters of the expedition. It is not improbable that this column may have a sanguinary conflict with the Indians before they get through, but it is specially prepared to push through at all hazards. The Secretary of War is peremptorily refusing all applications from civilians or correspondents to accompany this expedition, as it is Gen. Sheridan's desire to have the column incumbered as little as possible by non-combatants. The scientific party has been reduced to five.

REISSUE OF CLOTHING TO THE TROOPS IN THE MODOC COUNTRY.

Gen. Davis telegraphed to-day that the character of the country in which the troops operating against the Modocs are serving is very destructive to clothing, especially to shoes, which are rapidly cut to pieces by the rocks and stones of the lava beds. The Secretary of War at once directed an extra issue of clothing to the troops for this service.

THE MACKENZIE RAID.

According to the usages of the Mexican Government, it will require the action of the Congress of that Republic before there can be any official protest against the action of Gen. Mackenzie in chastising the Kickapoo Indians on Mexican soil, and it is doubtful whether there will be such action in any event. The Kickapoos and Lipans are refugees from our own soil, and live by outrage and theft on the Mexicans as well. They use Mexican soil as a retreat from their raids into Texas, and have thus far defied the United States forces because of this fact. They were most severely punished by the Fourth Cavalry, and are not likely to repeat their forays.

THE INTERNAL REVENUE BUREAU.

The internal revenue system has not been disturbed by the initial operations of the consolidated Internal Revenue act. It is given out at the Internal Revenue Department that the collectors are all readily adapting themselves to their new duties. Commissioner Douglass has made adequate provision for storing and preserving the additional records which are to be gathered here from the numerous offices in the country. This accumulation of documentary and record information at this point will give the Commissioner more exhaustive information of the business of his bureau, and enable him more efficiently to control its operations.

CONSULATE EXAMINATION.

Mr. L. E. Cropsey, of Nebraska, to-day passed a successful examination at the State Department for the Consulate at Chemnitz, Saxony. Mr. Cropsey will hold the only consulate held by a citizen of Nebraska. There were several other applicants for consulates examined.

PERSONAL.

Postmaster General Creswell has concluded to abandon his contemplated trip to California and the Western States. The duties of his position are so arduous that he does not expect to be absent from the city for any prolonged period during the recess.

THE PNEUMATIC TUBE.

Mr. Brisbane, the inventor of the pneumatic tube laid from the Capitol to the Government Printing Office, which thus far has proved a failure, intends now to construct the tube of iron, and is confident of the speedy success of his enterprise.

THE CREDIT MOBILIER PRISONER.

The plea in the case of Stewart, the recusant witness against Speaker Blaine and other officers of the House for false imprisonment, has been prepared, and will soon be filed.

THE WHITE HOUSE.

To-day workmen began to tear down the ceiling of the east room of the White House, in order to replace it with a new one. The ceiling has long been in an insecure condition, and Congress made a special appropriation for a new one. The repairs will require some weeks for their completion. The President and Gen. Babcock left this morning for a private trip to Harrisburg, Penn., and will return on Wednesday evening.

RECEIPTS FROM FERMENTED LIQUORS.

A comparative statement, showing the receipts from fermented liquors at $1 per barrel, in some of the leading districts of the United States returning the largest revenues from this source from the first six months of the fiscal year ending June, 1872 and 1873, gives a total increase in the United States of $669,837, or 17 per cent. The following increases are shown from districts in New-York, viz.: Brooklyn, $56,987; New-York, $70,364; Yonkers, $31,761; Albany, $11,678; Troy, $9,513; Syracuse, $9,311; Elmira, $2,369; Buffalo, $15,299. In Ohio the following increases are shown: Cincinnati, $29,499; Toledo, $8,309; Cleveland, $19,519. In Pennsylvania—Philadelphia, $45,964; Scranton, $5,745; Erie, $1,990; Pittsburg, $10,766; Allegheny City, $10.876. In Indiana—Evansville, $2,809; Indianapolis, $2,766; Lafayette, $1,245; Logansport, $2,385. In Baltimore, Md., $11,199; Boston, $56,317; St. Louis, $18,741; Detroit, $16,749. In Iowa—Burlington, $2,036; Davenport, $2,803; Iowa City, $2,361; Des Moines, $1,620. In Louisville, Ky., $3,700; in San Francisco, $26,856; in Denver, $2,002; in Quincy, Ill., $2,110; in Joliet, $4,286.

SENATOR CARPENTER'S SPEECH IN NEW-ORLEANS.

Gov. Kellogg, in a letter received to-day, says that Senator Carpenter's recent speech in New-Orleans had a good, and not an injurious, effect on the State Government. This is contrary to recently-published statements, and it was said in official circles this afternoon the President's late proclamation was issued solely on the application of Gov. Kellogg for the reasons set forth in that document, and that there were no extraneous influences whatever brought to bear upon the subject.

MUNICIPAL AFFAIRS.

Board of Assistant Aldermen—Remonstrances to the Legislature.

The Board of Assistant Aldermen met at 2 P. M. yesterday.

Mr. Thornell presented a resolution protesting against the passage of the bill by the Legislature incorporating the New-York Warehouse and Railroad Company.

Mr. Thornell said this was a grand scheme by which the incorporators of the company might take the whole water front of the City and encircle the whole island with a railroad, without any restriction whatever. If the bill passed it would be worth $50,000,000 to the company, and the rights of private property-owners would be entirely ignored.

Mr. Clancy said the bill not only gave the company the right to construct a railroad, but also ten piers, without limit as to size or location.

The resolution was adopted.

A resolution was passed asking the Legislature to amend that clause of the charter forbidding the repaving of streets except on petition of the property-owners, so that the repaving may be done on petition of the Clerk of the Board.

A resolution by Mr. Thornell, directing that a remonstrance be prepared against the passage of the bill providing for a loan of $2,500,000 by the City to the Industrial Exhibition Company, was read.

Mr. Clancy said the Legislature could not compel the City to loan the money without adequate security being given therefor. The resolution was laid on the table. The board then adjourned to Thursday next.

Board of Supervisors—Its Legal Status Still Undetermined.

The Board of Supervisors met at 3:30 yesterday afternoon, Mr. Vance in the chair.

Recorder Hackett, who had entered the chamber a few minutes previous to the meeting of the board, addressed the Chair and said he had carefully perused the charter and was of opinion that that portion of it which empowered the Board of Aldermen to sit as Supervisors did not take away from the Mayor and Recorder the right to sit with them as members of the board. If it had been the intention of the charter to deprive them of this right, it would undoubtedly have said so. He spoke advisedly, and merely gave the opinion held by some of the most eminent lawyers in the City. He was, therefore, he said, present to-day.

Mr. Hackett's name was then enrolled by the clerk, and he took his seat as a member of the board.

Mr. Cooper asked whether any communication had been received from the Corporation Counsel in regard to the legal constitution of the board.

Mr. Vance said the clerk had waited on the Corporation Counsel, and he had stated that the questions involved were of so grave a character that he required more time to consider them.

Mr. Kehr said he had just seen the Corporation Counsel, and that gentleman had said that if the board would adjourn for one week he would, at the end of that time, be able to give his opinion on the subject.

On motion of Mr. Cooper the clerk was directed to prepare the usual monthly pay-rolls, and the board then adjourned for one week.

The Police Department—The Levee at Head-Quarters.

The Police Central Office presented the animated appearance yesterday that has been observable since the installation of the new Board of Police and the appointment of Superintendent Matsell. The halls and corridors were thronged all day by politicians of all classes, all clamoring to see the Commissioners in their own interest, or on behalf of some aspiring friends who are anxious to serve the people in any capacity. Among those who called were E. Delafield Smith, Corporation Counsel; ex-Dock Commissioner Agnew, Assemblyman Blackie, Alderman Monheimer, City Marshal Richard Croker, Deputy Sheriff Judson Jarvis, Capt. Wiley, of Manhattanville; "Mike" Norton, E. D. Farrell of Albany, James L. Hastie, Thomas Henry Ferris, Harry Genet, George Caulfield, Aldermen Flanagan and Lysaght, Senator James O'Brien, Police Justice Scott, Assemblyman Tim Campbell, "Jim" Barclay ex-City Librarian, John V. Gridley, M. B. Brown, and a small army of others. There were a host of physicians also in attendance, looking after the appointments of Police Surgeons, for which there appears to be a great scramble among the political doctors in this City. The Board of Police met at 10:30 o'clock, and remained in session until after 12 o'clock, but informed the representatives of the Press that nothing of public interest had been transacted. A large number of applications for appointments as clerks, surgeons, and policemen were received and placed on file. The board will in future hold their regular meeting at 10:30 A. M. each day.

Among those who called to see Commissioner Gardner, were two colored men, who were applicants for clerkships in the department. Mr. Gardner was not in his office, and the colored gentlemen appeared very much disappointed at their non-success in interviewing the commissioner.

Superintendent Matsell received a number of callers at his office. The majority of those who called were old friends and acquaintances, who dropped in to congratulate him on his resumption of the duties of the head of the police force after a lapse of sixteen years. Among the visitors were Robert Brown, Mr. McKellar, his former private Secretary and partner, Tom Ferris, and Mayor Hall. Mayor Havemeyer, accompanied by John Wheeler, President of the Board of Tax Commissioners, and Alderman John Morris, called on Superintendent Matsell during the morning, and a long consultation ensued, the result of which has not been made public.

The City Hall.

Yesterday was the seventieth anniversary of the laying of the corner-stone of the City Hall. The building, though commenced in 1803, was not completed for nearly twenty years afterward, work on it being suspended during the war of 1812.

Mr. Salem H. Wales, recently reappointed as a Commissioner of Public Parks, took the oath of office yesterday.

Mr. George W. Lane, the new City Chamberlain, was also sworn in yesterday, and filed with the Controller bonds for $2,700,000. His bondsmen are Benjamin B. Sherman, Treasurer of the New-York Steam Sugar Refining Company; A. F. Ockerhausen, sugar refiner; George C. Collins, importer of sugars; Thomas Monahan, President of Fulton Bank; Mr. H. Fogg, tea merchant; D. Willis James, of Phelps, Dodge & Co.; Joseph Park, Jr., of Park & Tilford; Wm. I. Bridge, of Judd Linseed-oil Company.

Unclaimed Medals of Soldiers Who Served in the Mexican War.

In looking over the archives of the City yesterday afternoon, Gen. Pinckney, clerk of the Common Council, discovered in a safe in the City Library twelve silver medals, bearing the following inscription: "Presented by New-York to the New-York Regiment of Volunteers in Mexico." On the reverse are the words: "Vera Cruz," "Chapultepec," "Cherubusco," and "Cerro Gordo." On one side are also the City arms, and on the other a figure of war, or, perhaps, Victory, hurling her darts at a burning city. Each medal, in addition, bears the name of the soldier for whom it was prepared, as follows:

Company B—Corporal Fred'k Bones, James Kelly, George Nazel, Conrad Dorn, Herman Konig, Martin Geier.
Company C—Christian Clemm, Thos. Dodd.
Company D—Edward Dunn, John B. Halfpenny, Jos. Kelly.
Company I—John Sanders.

The owners of the medals, or their representatives, can obtain them by applying to the Clerk of the Common Council, Room No. 19 City Hall.

MONDAY, May 26—P. M.

The change of administration in France, advised by Cable since the close of business on Saturday, had no perceptible effect upon our Wall-street markets to-day. The Gold clique endeavored early in the forenoon to sell on the news at 118⅛@118⅛ ℘ cent., but the effort was soon given over, and the party had to support the speculation as far as they could through the day at 118⅛@118⅜@118⅛@118⅛ ℘ cent. The Foreign Exchanges were weak in the early part of the day, but left off 108⅛@108⅛ ℘ cent. for 60 days' London and 109⅞@110 ℘ cent. for Sight Bills. The clique movement to put up Gold showing signs of weakness late in the day, caused rather a steadier feeling in Exchange. The Public Funds of the United States were not less strong, however, than on Saturday, the 5-20s of 1867 121¼ ℘ cent.

The money market was comfortable on call loan at 6@7 ℘ cent., and on good paper at 7@9 ℘ cent.

The Share speculation at the Stock Exchange was dull in the forenoon, and showed no decided improvement of demand later in the day, but the prices, as a rule, were quite stubborn, and the feeling seemed to be that if the Street could be relieved of the apprehension of a crisis in Gold, (which, if worked up to important proportions, will be to the prejudice of the Stock and Money markets,) the orders to buy Stocks for a Summer rise would increase, favored as they would be by comparatively cheap money.

UNITED STATES TREASURY, }
NEW-YORK, May 26, 1873. }

Gold receipts	$506,835 58
Gold payments	217,404 58
Gold balance	61,285,290 44
Currency receipts	280,432 14
Currency payments	467,863 90
Currency balance	22,803,428 14
Customs	307,000 00

It is due to the Gold Exchange Bank, a local association under the Banking laws of the State of New-York, with a capital of $500,000, to say that while the immense daily transactions, nine-tenths of a purely speculative character, are daily cleared through the Bank—as before Black Friday in 1869, when the Bank broke down—the system or machinery for clearing is greatly improved since that notable disaster. We are assured that no clearances are completed until every dollar of Currency to pay for Gold, and every dollar of Gold to be paid for in Currency, are provided before 1:30 o'clock P. M. If there is a single link in the chain wanting, no matter how inconsiderable, at this hour, the clearances of the day fall through, and every dollar of Currency provided to pay for Gold, and every dollar of Gold sent in to be paid for in Currency, are returned to proper ownership. Thus far the Bank is apparently all right, which it would not have been under the less guarded practice of 1869, when a Receivership was suddenly granted by one of the courts of New-York notoriously in the interest of the Fisk-Gould conspiracy.

The next question is, whether the announcement at 1:30 o'clock that the clearances of the day had been thrown back upon the street by the failure of such desperate speculators as Jay Gould, or the default of his irresponsible brokers, who had bought and lent vast sums of Gold, indiscriminately, to take the Gold due in regular course or called in, for delivery, would relieve the Brokers and Bankers interested of serious embarrassment. The inconveniences of the day would, undoubtedly, be innumerable, and it would be small satisfaction to know that the machinery of the Gold Exchange Bank had protected itself before 2 o'clock in the day, after having been used by such people as Jay Gould and his confederates, in a desperate effort to corner the Cash Gold. With due deference, therefore, to the Managers and Directors of the Gold Exchange Bank—Clearing place for the Gold Room—we have to repeat the caution thrown out a few days ago, that the machinery of the concern is still somewhat hazardous to the Brokers and Bankers of the Street. The Bank, we are since assured, may make itself all right, but what becomes of its Gold dealers after 1:30 P. M., on being advised that Jay Gould and his half dozen irresponsible go-betweens had failed to take the Gold which they had impudently called in, in the mistaken hope of a successful corner, and had failed to provide the Money to redeem their undertakings? The answer to this pregnant inquiry we shall not undertake to discuss at any length. It is sufficient to advise the Street, its Brokers and Bankers interested in Gold sales and the deliveries of Gold, that they had best make their operations "Ex Clearing," and had best borrow Gold of responsible houses, rather than of the men of straw, who, as on the approach and presence of Black Friday, are employed to carry up the corner, if they can, or to break if they cannot—as they did on that notable occasion.

It is satisfactory to state, in regard to political and financial affairs in the distracted State of Louisiana, that arrangements are understood to have been made, in the last few days, for the payment, on the 1st of June, at New-Orleans, on the suspended Coupons of the State Debt, due Jan. 1 and Feb. 1, 1873. The Kellogg Administration of the State Government have been enabled to collect taxes in sufficient amount for this purpose. The sum total to be delivered in June is between $300,000 and $400,000. The revolutionary efforts of the old rebel element in New-Orleans and the up-river Parishes to defeat the collection of Taxes, while creating some embarrassment, as well as delay in providing the State Interest, were happily unequal to the bad purposes, political and financial, they were designed to accomplish.

No satisfactory additional information is obtained to-day as to the Lumber trade bankruptcies of last week. The four Banks here and one in Philadelphia, the two Canada Bank Agencies, and Mr. W. E. Dodge, Sr., are, no doubt, made to carry a "Slow debt" of considerable magnitude for eighteen or twenty months, on Lumber Collateral. The other liabilities are distributed to out-of-town Banks and Bankers. It is not improbable that young Mr. Anson Phelps Dodge, who expatriated himself a year or two ago to play a very ungenerous part toward his native land in the Dominion Parliament, has proved, by the events of last week, as sanguine and unreliable in trade as he is indiscreet in politics.

We understand that the Bank of British North America holds only $50,000 of the Lumber paper involved in the explosion of the trade last week, and upon this sum the indorsements are said to be good.

BANKING AND FINANCIAL.

BANKING-HOUSE OF

JAY COOKE & CO.

NO. 20 WALL-STREET, May 24, 1873.

The Northern Pacific Railroad Company having determined to close its 7-30 First Mortgage Gold Loan at an aggregate not exceeding thirty million dollars, and thereafter to pay no higher rate of interest than 6 per cent. on further issues of its bonds, the limited remainder of the 7 3-10 loan is now being disposed of through the usual agencies.

As the bonds of this issue are made receivable in payment for the Company's lands at 1.10, they are in constant and increasing demand for this purpose, and will continue to be after the loan is closed—a fact which much enhances their value and attractiveness as an investment.

The Company has more than 500 miles of its road built and in operation, has earned title to nearly ten million acres of its land grant, and sales of lands have thus far averaged $5 66 per acre.

FOR INVESTMENT.

It is universally conceded that carefully-selected FIRST MORTGAGE RAILROAD BONDS are not only SAFE, but are the MOST DESIRABLE SECURITIES for investment purposes. It is also an established fact that there are fewer instances of default in the Railroad than in any other of the great interests of the country.

These facts have been accepted as applying to the securities of Railroads generally, but they apply with greatly increased force in cases where the Roads have superior advantages in location, management and connections.

The Indianapolis, Bloomington, and Western Railway possesses all the advantages here named, and has, in addition, a very large business already created and assured to it. The BONDS of this road now offered are GOLD, SEVEN PER CENT., CONVERTIBLE, are FULLY SECURED by a FIRST MORTGAGE on an extension of 217 miles, and are a liability of the entire line of 420 miles, of which four-fifths are completed.

The geographical position of the road is remarkably favorable. Commencing at Indianapolis its direction is west, and diverging at Champaign it has terminal points at Peoria on the Illinois River and on the Mississippi opposite Keokuk.

Net earnings of the division from Indianapolis to Pekin and Peoria are large, and have been for a considerable period greater than the amount required for interest on all bonds issued by the company. Regular trains are running on more than 100 miles of the extension, and total receipts of the road for this year must be very satisfactory to all holders of its securities.

The Earnings in 1872 were $1,359,690 55, an increase of $395,000 over 1871. It is expected they will reach $2,000,000 during the present year.

These Bonds have an INTRINSIC VALUE exceeding the present low price of 90 and INTEREST, and holders will find a POSITIVE ADVANTAGE in an early increase in the value of their investment. Coupons January and July 1.

All NEGOTIABLE securities RECEIVED in exchange at best MARKET RATES.

Pamphlets, maps, and circulars furnished on application.

7 PER CENT. GOLD BONDS

COUPON AND REGISTERED. INTEREST PAYABLE IN GOLD, APRIL AND OCTOBER.

THE CANADA SOUTHERN, or eastern end of this line, whose Bonds were so rapidly sold last Summer,

Is Now Finished,

and will be opened for business, in connection with the TOLEDO AND WABASH and other Western Roads, at a very early day. The CHICAGO AND CANADA SOUTHERN, or western end of this line, is now being rapidly built, and the Company expect it to be finished during the present year.

THIS GREAT TRUNK LINE, when completed through, will be of immense advantage to the shipping interests of the Great West, being Level, Straight and thirty-three miles Shorter than any other route. Having connections with all the lines running into Buffalo at the East and Chicago at the West, and under the management of some of the most experienced railroad operators of the country, its success is rendered a certainty, and its Bonds must be a safe and profitable investment. It makes the shortest and best connections going West, both at Toledo and Detroit, and is the only Seven per Cent. Gold Bond on any through Trunk line now offered.

FINANCIAL.

TOLEDO, WABASH & WESTERN RAILROAD COMPANY'S

7 Per Cent. Mortgage Bonds.

PRINCIPAL AND INTEREST PAYABLE IN GOLD COIN.

Issued for the Purchase of Steel Rails.

Principal Due 1893. Interest Coupons Payable 1st February and 1st August, in City of New-York.

The Directors of this Trunk Line, between Toledo and St. Louis, comprising with its branches over 600 miles of completed road, have decided, in order to accommodate the great increase of traffic, to relay the ENTIRE LINE WITH STEEL RAILS, and for that purpose have issued $5,000,000 of 7 per cent. Mortgage Gold Bonds.

The steady increase of business over this line will be rapidly and greatly augmented by its connection with the Canada Southern Railroad, (which will be open for traffic in a few weeks,) rendering the substitution of steel rails a necessity.

The net earnings for the years 1871 and 1872, after paying the interest on the Mortgage debt of the company, were largely in excess of the amount necessary to pay the interest on this Mortgage.

The road has no floating debt. All the proceeds of these Bonds go to the permanent improvement of the property, experience having proved that by substituting steel for iron rails on roads doing so heavy a traffic the "saving" alone, without any allowance for increase of business, is sufficient to pay off at least four times the amount of this Mortgage before maturity. The advantage of employing steel rails is so great that all our Trunk Lines are adopting them to the exclusion of iron ones.

As the Bonds will only be issued so fast as the rails can be laid, we now offer for sale but $1,000,000, AT NINETY AND ACCRUED INTEREST IN CURRENCY.

The large earnings of this Road, with its future prospects, make this Bond, in our opinion, an undoubted security.

We cannot notice anonymous communications. In all cases we require the writer's name and address, not for publication, but as a guarantee of good faith.

We cannot under any circumstances return rejected communications, nor can we undertake to preserve manuscripts.

Attorney General BARLOW has made the report requested by the Legislature, concerning the dividends paid upon fraudulently issued Erie stock, and is decided in his opinion that the transaction was "illegal, fraudulent, and void." But he cannot suggest any practical remedy, as he declares it is not now possible to discriminate as to what stock is tainted, and what is not. A suit he asserts would have no useful result, yet he is ready to undertake one if the Legislature so orders. This, we presume, will not be done, and it is fair to conclude that the Erie investigation has ended in nothing better than an addition to our knowledge of the wonderful and unsavory management of our railways. There is no difficulty, says Gen. BARLOW, about the law, but the trouble is with the facts. It hardly needed the statement of an Attorney General to bring home this truth to the injured reputation of the country and the empty pockets of shareholders.

MATSELL has already shown himself unfit for the position into which he was thrust by the Mayor, in defiance of public opinion. Picking up rumors of a strike of the carpenters, he issued an order instructing the captains "to preserve the peace at all hazards." That there was no strike, nor any intention of one requiring any such display of vigor, was easily ascertained by our reporters, and the fact would have been within the reach of a Superintendent not accustomed, as publisher of the Police Gazette, to snap at sensations. We are not surprised that the carpenters, at their meeting last evening, freely expressed their indignation at the conduct of the Mayor's man. By the story of a general strike of the carpenters, and the silly action of MATSELL, a large number of reputable citizens have been greatly wronged and many others needlessly alarmed. It is in season to wish we had more of truth in newspaper reports and less of MATSELL in the administration of police affairs.

President MACMAHON has formed a coalition Cabinet of reactionists, who have but little in common save their opposition to the progressive development of the Republic. If the ultimate aim of politics were the preservation of things precisely as they are, the wonderful combination of celebrities and nobodies, headed by the DUC DE BROGLIE, might have a fair chance of remaining in power till there are enough vacancies created in the Assembly to dissolve the slender majority on which their official existence depends. But even a Cabinet which the new President vouches for as "resolutely conservative," must have a policy of some kind, and it is very difficult to imagine any thing short of absolute inaction on which men like DE BROGLIE, MAGNE, and BATBIE could cordially unite. President MACMAHON's Cabinet contains within it all the possibilities of early dissolution, and it need hardly be stated that the majority of the Assembly which sustains it is made up of equally incongruous elements. It is one thing to stand solid in opposition, but quite a different affair to be called on to supply a line of political action for the future. President MACMAHON's vague phrases about the restoration of order and the national elevation of France must be translated into something definite. If they mean an attack upon the integrity of the suffrage, the freedom of the Press, or the rights of public discussion, they will simply lead to revolution, from which the Marshal and his friends will hardly emerge unscathed. If they mean the substitution for the Republic, of Legitimism, Orleanism, or Bonapartism, the first step toward carrying them out will result in dissolving the coalesced Conservative factions into their component parts, and the definitive triumph of the adherents of democratic liberty.

The announced intention of ex-President THIERS to resume his seat in the Assembly on the benches of the party of the Left Centre, bodes a world of trouble to his successor. Marshal MACMAHON is not at all likely to take advantage of the Presidential prerogative of participating in the debates of the Assembly. There is no member of the BROGLIE-MAGNE coalition, unless, perhaps, M. BATBIE, who is anything like a match in debate for M. THIERS. If all the fractions of the Left can be depended on to present a solid front of opposition under the leadership of the ex-President, the existence of the present Administration can hardly be a very lengthened one. To detach a score or so of Deputies from their adhesion to the new Conservative régime, is only a question of a little time, apart from the certain increase of strength accruing to the Radicals at the elections to fill vacancies caused by death or resignation. Everything fights on the side of the Republic, if the Republicans can only bide their time with patience, moderation, and union.

Civilizing the Indians has not been attended with such success as to justify the rejection of any help in the work which is offered, and the Commissioner of Indian Affairs has properly said to a Presbyterian agent in Idaho, that he must not prohibit the teaching of the Catholic faith or holding of Catholic service among the Indians under his charge. The agent who asks permission to do such a thing shows himself so unfitted for his position that his longer continuance in it is not likely to result in much benefit to the cause he is supposed to serve. If he remain among the Indians he should devote his time, in future, to efforts to surpass his rivals in the work of converting the savages, instead of using it to make such requests as that to which Commissioner SMITH has so fitly replied.

Evidently, our temperance friends do not believe in the doctrine that "half a loaf is better than no bread." By resolutions adopted in a meeting at Albany, yesterday, they announce their disapprobation of the bill which has been prepared in conformity with the views expressed by Gov. DIX in his veto of the Local Option bill, and they take occasion to denounce ale and beer as beverages, "the most costly, debasing and ruinous of all in general use." We must remind these gentlemen that the bill which so excites their indignation is intended to allow them the opportunity to give practical effect to this opinion, provided it is the opinion of a majority—and they surely do not wish to deny others the liberty they claim for themselves. The temperance question has become one of sufficient interest to be met with argument, rather than hot words, and the friends of prohibition can easily find a better method of curbing the liquor-traffic than by demands for arbitrary procedures that would be sure, in practice, to evoke great popular disapproval. We hope to see a wiser spirit displayed by the advocates of temperance legislation than they have shown since the loss of the bill vetoed by Gov. DIX because it did not furnish the means to fully and fairly carry out the idea for which they have contended.

It was seriously argued, yesterday, before Judge BLATCHFORD, that voluntary publication in newspapers or magazines by an author is a dedication of the productions thus published to the public, so that the author cannot subsequently establish a valid copyright in his works by gathering these fugitive pieces into a volume. The statement was made that this proposition is entirely novel, there being no decision on the point, but Judge BLATCHFORD very promptly and properly furnished one to the effect that the doctrine is untenable. Law and justice are for once identical, as it is manifest an author should be protected in the enjoyment of his property whenever he chooses to advance his claim. It is not creditable to any book-seller detected in vending a piratical edition to claim, because the author gave the public the benefit of his works for a time without asking his legitimate reward, that his rights in his property had been forfeited. We rejoice in the information that this plea is novel, and hope it will not again be advanced; if it is, the seal of judicial disapprobation should be put upon it with the promptitude that Judge BLATCHFORD has shown.

Charter Supplements Again.

A week ago we explained somewhat in detail the character and purport of certain bills vitally affecting the complete organization of our local government, which had been prepared for presentation to the Legislature. These bills have now passed the ordeal of committee, and stand printed upon the files of the Senate. During the three days that remain of the legislative session these measures must be passed. This is a simple question of necessity, and one which admits of but one opinion. The bills are, one and all, intended to correct serious flaws in the new charter, and failure to pass them would lead to so much embarrassment, litigation, and positive loss to the taxpayers, that lasting odium would attach to the body whose carelessness or indifference should leave them on the list of uncompleted business.

I. Senate bill No. 558 provides for the consolidation of the City and County of New-York. We have so often stated the arguments in favor of this bill that it is unnecessary to repeat them. Nobody professes to doubt its immediate necessity, and as it is now on the order of third reading, there need be no further delay in putting it promptly through.

II. Senate bill No. 565 extends the time required to enable the Board of Apportionment to revise the estimates for the year; removes all doubts as to the ability of this board to provide funds for the Board of Education; makes an important and salutary reservation about the opening of proposals for public work done by contract, and otherwise repairs minor omissions in the charter. It is now in possession of the Senate Committee of the Whole, and should be at once acted on.

III. Senate bill No. 566 removes the doubts which attach to the right of the Mayor and Recorder to sit, as heretofore, on the Board of Supervisors. This bill has also been committed to the Senate Committee of the Whole.

IV. Senate bill No. 567 provides for the removal of the present Court-house Commissioners, INGERSOLL, NORTON, COMAN, and WALSH, and places beyond the reach of litigation the question of the appointment of their successors. This bill remains at the same stage of progress as the two preceding.

V. Senate Bill No. 568 removes the present Commissioner of Jurors, who being, presumably, a County officer, may be able to dispute, with a chance of success, the legality of his removal under a City law, which the charter exclusively is. We do not think that the Legislature intends to keep in office a pliant tool of Tammany like "DOUG." TAYLOR, and disappoint us of the certainty of making the Commissionership of Jurors efficient and respectable under a gentleman like Mr. JOSEPH B. VARNUM. The Senate Committee of the Whole cannot, therefore, be too prompt in placing the bill on its final passage.

VI. Senate bill No. 569 legislates out of office, beyond any possible legal doubt, the present Commissioners for the erection of the Third District Court-house, and places beyond the reach of vexatious litigation the appointment of their successors.

VII. Senate bill No. 570 is perhaps the most important of all these charter supplements. A city charter cannot constitutionally provide for raising county taxes and paying the expenses of the county government. As all previous instruments which do so provide have been repealed, there is no existing legal provision for paying judicial salaries, meeting the interest on County bonds, and the like. This bill gives the Board of Apportionment the same jurisdiction over County matters which it already possesses over those of the City, and its immediate passage is absolutely essential if we would be saved from a very awkward and dangerous financial dead-lock.

Changes in France.

For the first time in nearly fifty years France has seen a change in its Government without violence. CHARLES X., who succeeded to the throne of LOUIS XVIII. in the natural order, was the last Executive whose accession to power was not brought about directly or indirectly by force. LOUIS PHILIPPE was the product of the revolution of 1830; LOUIS NAPOLEON, Prince and President, took office under the revolution of 1848; the Empire was inaugurated with the coup d'état; the Provisional Government was formed at the dictation of a Paris mob on the morrow of Sedan; the Presidency of THIERS was accepted from an Assembly called together only to make peace with the armies that had struck down the Provisional Government. By general insurrection, by a Paris émeute, by the seizure and assassination of representatives, by the voice of delegates voting under a flag of truce, by all these forms of violence, the executive power has passed from one to another; but now, for the first time in nearly half a century, and, with one trifling exception, for the first time in an entire century, a change has been made by the peaceful vote of popular representatives, and has been quietly, and apparently finally, accepted.

This is certainly a significant event. It is more so when we recall the condition of the various political parties in the country and of the Legislative Body. The authority of the Assembly is of a very qualified and doubtful character. It was elected to make peace with BISMARCK, and to rule the country until such provision as it was expected to make for the choice of a permanent government could be carried out. It has done a good many things which a very large majority of the people believe it had no right to do; has practically assumed the constituent power which was never definitely conferred upon it, and which the majority never intended in a positive sense that it should have; and it has given many plausible grounds for resisting any very important change that it might decree. Yet it has just decreed the most important change possible, and there is no resistance offered at all. We cannot attribute this fact to the popular strength of the party which has effected the change. In truth, the change was not effected by a party, but by a coalition principally of the two branches of the Monarchists, aided by the Imperialists and a fragment of Conservative Republicans. The supporters of the majority in the Assembly do not thus represent a compact majority in the nation. Their agreement is only negative, and will disappear the moment any attempt is made to use it in establishing a definitive change in the Government.

It is obvious that a great change has come over the temper of the French people as a whole, when they quietly allow a bare majority in a suspected National Assembly to turn out an honored President and put in his place the candidate of a weak and temporary coalition. The temptation to turbulence was never greater, the resistance to temptation was never more firm. This change augurs well for the future of France. When taken in connection with the fact that the recent elections to the Assembly (thirteen in number, and resulting in the election of eleven Gambettists, one Liberal Bonapartist, and one Legitimist) show that the Republic is steadily gaining in popular favor, and that, too, in the rural districts, it is beyond question that a Republic is more possible than it was before M. THIERS was displaced.

The reception of M. THIERS' defeat in the Assembly is, in this light, a great triumph for him. It shows that he has made solid progress in what has been his principal aim, the education of the people of France in self-government. It is not worth while to question now all the motives which he has managed to combine to produce the self-restraint so distinctly practiced. It is a great achievement to secure that self-restraint at all. M. THIERS' career has not been without grave reproach in the past, and France trusted him largely in the crisis after the war, because he was believed to be without motive for betraying his trust; but he has earned the grateful remembrance of his country by the lesson he has given it in the difficult but all-important art of self-control.

A valuable characteristic of M. THIERS' service to France is that it puts it in his power to now perform a still greater one. He has proven that a quasi Republic, under the guidance of a moderate and prudent man is a safe form of government. He has now to prove that a party pledged to change, or determined to change the quasi Republic into a pronounced and permanent one, can refrain from doing anything to endanger the public order. In this task, arduous and delicate as it is, M. THIERS seems likely to have the co-operation of the active Republicans, and especially of M. GAMBETTA. The coalition is certainly a strange one. GAMBETTA has shown himself capable of being what THIERS is reported to have called him—a fou furieux; but he has also shown himself capable of great coolness and clear-headed calculation in the midst of the utmost provocations, and the capabilities in every direction of a man who has been both as wild and as self-contained as he, are not easily measured. The fate of France now lies largely with these two men. It will be determined not so much by what the Monarchists undertake to do as by the way in which the Republicans, as a body, accept what is done. The timid countrymen and the property-holders have been partially won over by the spectacle of the Republic in power; they can be completely secured by the spectacle of the Republicans still temperate and reasonable, in the opposition.

The Perils of the Season.

The destructive wind-tempests in the West, and the violent electrical storms in the East, each of which has caused loss of life within these few days, as well as damage to property, appear to confirm the opinions of some meteorologists who have predicted that the season is to be one of sharp atmospheric vicissitudes, and of unusual thermal severity. An uncommonly late Spring, and a consequent backwardness of vegetation, implying disturbance of the customary equilibrium, has often been the herald of intense heat and fierce storms, and such may not improbably be the case this season. It is highly important, then, to take all possible hygienic and precautionary action to forestall, so far as may be, the evil effects to be apprehended. Of course there are rules of cleanliness, diet, and exercise, that should be respected at all times; yet it is equally obvious that the neglect or infraction of those rules may be more dangerous at one time than another.

So far as the City of New-York is concerned, there is a great deal of work that ought to be done at once without the loss of a day. On the skirts of the island, especially, there still festers a vast amount of filth which may do incalculable mischief if left undisturbed. The central thoroughfares and some of the principal divergent lines to the rivers, have been pretty well cleansed; but there are masses of garbage, decaying animal matter, the vile putrescent refuse of the slums and humbler dwellings, still remaining in obscurer places and unseen by many in their daily walks and drives. In the neighborhood of the chief markets, and in nearly all the tenement-house streets, there are loads of corruption which a few days of hot sun will make breeders of malaria and perhaps of pestilence. We have escaped a great epidemic here during these few years past, but fortune is fickle, and we have no right to count on future, because of past, immunity. Should any serious pestilence menace the public health, the supineness that has permitted long neglect of this nightmare of filth, resting on the besom of the City, will appear in the retrospect little better than deliberate suicide.

Cleanliness, personal, or in surroundings, has been so far demonstrated to be a prophylactic that to neglect it is in truth well-nigh criminal. Now, it is to be feared that even these numerous New-Yorkers who have the great privilege of bath-rooms at their disposal do not sufficiently avail of them. It is a common fault of humanity to undervalue what is already, and as a matter of course, possessed. But the free use of the bath is, in this country of extreme climatic changes, even exceptionally important. The range of temperature in old Rome was far within that of modern New-York, and the universal ablutions of the better classes in the former city have permanent notoriety. Regular bathing should not only be encouraged by heads of families but insisted on, as of as much importance in its way as regular food and sleep. As regards those who have no bath-rooms, the situation is less easy, although we fancy that people who really want to wash themselves are not apt to find it hard to do it. A sponge and a tub, or even a basin and a towel, if water be only abundant, will answer in the absence of more elaborate appointments; and the new salt-water-bath-houses, although so far a long way from what in such a city they should be, offer facilities which are not to be despised. Could we only manage to get the streets thoroughly clean and sweet, not in Broadway and Fifth-avenue alone, but along all the wharves and the streets that lead to them; and could we then persuade a fair number of our population to wash thoroughly from head to foot, say every other day, New-York would be in far less danger from epidemic or pestilence than she now is.

There is, besides these considerations and the momentous ones that relate to diet and exercise, one, of which the significance is emphatic in New-York and, perhaps in a more limited way, in other American cities. Our community is cursed with overwork and overanxiety, with overdriven brains and overtaxed nerves. The habit of calmness, of self-possession, of repose, is very much needed among us. That habit, indeed, should be steadily cultivated by our people. The climatic vicissitudes and exciting atmosphere of the region clearly indicate, to the rational observer, the value, especially in the "heated term," of these qualities of quietude, restraint, deliberation—of, in fact, the qualities which precisely reverse those which are most active about us. A frame weakened and harassed, as are those of too many New-York professional and business men, is in poor condition to meet and resist any form of physical assault, and, least of all, are they fitted to repel the forms that other external conditions so gravely strengthen and reinforce. All these are matters of moment to the whole community, and each individual in it may wisely give them a good share of his attention. Whether we are to have a season of exceptional severity or not, such attention will be fitly and beneficently bestowed. Life, as MARTIAL says, is not to live, but to be well; and whoever thinks rationally about these things, and acts upon his thoughts, will surely be better in health this Summer than he otherwise would be whether we are visited by, or are still destined to escape, cholera, yellow fever, or any of their baleful fellows.

"Handicap" Races.

Following in the wake of the advancing Spring, by way of Nashville, Lexington, and Baltimore, the racing season is shaping its course northward. Already at Jerome and Monmouth Parks is heard the note of preparation. Jockeys are going into training, clerks of courses are measuring out their handicaps, stud owners are getting their high-mettled racers into proper trim for the approaching contest. The indications are that both at Long Branch and Fordham the coming Spring meeting will be, in point of interest and brilliancy, quite up to past standards. No event perhaps can be looked forward to equal in excitement or importance to the memorable struggle between Longfellow and Bassett. But with Monarchist needing to put forth all his energies to retain the laurels he wrested so gallantly last year from the defeated but not conquered Bassett, with Hubbard and Alarm, and that new idol of the Western turfmen, Tom Bowling, not to speak of the great unknown that every season may be expected to introduce to fame, there can be no lack of satisfactory sport.

One thing, however, we notice with regret, and that is the number of our best horses that will be missed from the most important races at Jerome Park, because their owners have declined to accept the weights apportioned by the handicapper. Thus, Monarchist and Hubbard are withdrawn from the Fordham Handicap, which will be left to fall a prize, perhaps, to a second-rate horse. The approaching meeting is certainly not singular in this respect, and differs from previous ones only, it may be, in the number of first-class racers that appear to have been, in the judgment of their owners, overweighted, and so practically ruled out. But if the attention of racing authorities is thereby directed more particularly to the advisability of handicapping, good may be the result. In England, for years past, there has been growing up a strong feeling against it, and prominent turfites have not hesitated to declare their belief that it was turning racing from a noble pastime into a disreputable trade. So pronounced is this conviction, that many of the most enthusiastic and wealthiest patrons of the turf have been led for this reason alone to sever their connection with it. The latest of these secessions is Sir JOSEPH HAWLEY, who was some time since said to be on the eve of selling his entire breeding stock for the reason expressed. The retirement of such a man on such grounds may well lead lovers of the race-horse in our country to inquire into the basis for this strong repugnance to a practice as familiar to American as to English courses, and quite as likely to lead to identical results.

Handicapping may be briefly explained as such an additional weight upon a horse superior in speed and bottom as to make it possible for an animal inferior in both respects to beat him. The effect of this contrivance is, of course, to make races more interesting as spectacles, and more useful for purposes of gambling. Whether it inures equally to the improvement of our racing stock is not altogether so clear. If the opinion and experience of men like Sir JOSEPH HAWLEY are at all valuable, we must concede that there is sufficient doubt in the matter to justify investigation. And to the eye of even inexperienced common sense, it seems plain that bringing a first-class racer down to a lower level of speed and endurance cannot be so improving as the endeavor to train an inferior horse up to the higher standard. The question is, at all events, well worth discussion.

Vulcan.

From time to time small dark spots have been reported as seen upon the disc of the sun, distinguishable from the ordinary sun-spots by their roundness and sharpness of outline, and by the fact that, instead of taking a fortnight to go from one side to the other, they pass across in a few hours. For the most part these observations have been made by amateur astronomers of no great celebrity, and have not been accompanied by sufficient detail of measurements to inspire, individually, any great confidence; still, as they are somewhat numerous, and have occurred mainly in the opposite months of October and March, they are sufficient to render more or less probable the existence of a planet nearer to the sun than Mercury.

The idea of such a planet is not new, however. In 1859 LEVERRIER, whose calculations, it will be remembered, led to the discovery of Neptune, the remotest planet of our system, found that certain irregularities in the motion of Mercury could be most easily explained by supposing a planet, or a group of planets like the so-called asteroids, to exist between Mercury and the sun.

Soon after his researches were published, a rumor began to spread that the planet had actually been seen within a few months. LEVERRIER at once investigated the matter and found that an obscure country physician, LESCARBAULT by name, residing in a small village, some fifty or sixty miles south-west of Paris, asserted that on the 26th of March preceding he had observed a small circular black spot pass across the sun's disc from east to west.

LEVERRIER went to visit him incognito, and gives a very amusing account of the interview, and of the sharp cross-examination to which he subjected the poor doctor, whose means of observation were certainly of the scantiest. His telescope was a small one of only two or three inches aperture; as a time-keeper he had only an old watch with no second-hand, so that he was obliged to use a pendulum consisting of a bullet at the end of a string for counting seconds, and to save paper he made his calculations on boards which he planed off whenever he wished to erase an old computation and make way for a new. He was not much of a mathematician, however, for he had not been able from his observation to find the period of his planet, though in hopes of so doing he had kept the matter to himself until he heard of LEVERRIER's paper.

As the result of his inquiry, LEVERRIER became satisfied that the reported observation was correct and genuine, and immediately announced it with due ceremony, assigning to the new planet the name of Vulcan. The discovery was received with great enthusiasm, and LESCARBAULT was flattered and fêted. LEVERRIER, from LESCARBAULT's observation, computed that the planet's distance from the sun should be about thirteen millions of miles, and its periodic time about nineteen and three-quarter days. He further concluded that it would again cross the sun in the latter part of March, 1860. It was carefully and anxiously looked for, but without success; and, to make matters worse, LIAIS, a celebrated astronomer, who at the time was in Brazil upon a scientific expedition, declared that on the very day and hour of LESCARBAULT's asserted observation he was carefully observing the sun, and, with his powerful instrument, could not have failed to see the transit if it had really occurred. This, of course, threw discredit upon the whole affair, and the impression has been deepened by the fact that, although careful search has been made for an intra-Mercurial planet at every one of the five or six total eclipses which have since taken place, nothing of the kind has been found; and certainly we should expect to see such a body then, if ever.

Still, a little scrap of positive evidence overbears an immense amount of negative, and it is by no means certain that LESCARBAULT either blundered or lied. Last Autumn Mr. HIND, the Superintendent of the British Nautical Almanac, re-examined the subject, and came to the conclusion that the existence of the planet was more probable than otherwise, and that it might be expected to be seen on the face of the sun on or about the 24th of March. He accordingly requested that astronomers would keep a lookout for it. Nothing was seen of it in Europe or this country, but on the 25th he received a telegraphic dispatch from a Mr. COWIE, of Shanghai, to the effect that his predicted circular black spot was seen on the sun about 9 A. M. of the 24th. Mr. COWIE is not known as an astronomer, and in the opinion of most of the scientific journals he has made the common mistake of confounding an ordinary sun-spot with a planet's disc. Still, it is best to suspend judgment until the mails bring further details of his observation.

On this side of the water much interest is felt in the question, and at the last meeting of the National Academy of Sciences, in April, Prof. ALEXANDER read a paper in which he argues on theoretical grounds the existence of a planet, or group of planets, at a distance of about twenty-one millions of miles from the sun, and with a period of 34 days and 16 hours. About the same time Prof. KIRKWOOD published an independent investigation of the February and March observations, from which he deduced a period of 34 days 22¼ hours, while from the October observations he got a period of 16 days 16¼ hours, from which he concluded the existence of two intra-Mercurial planets.

Prof. ALEXANDER has, however, since shown that the October observations may just as well be explained by a period of 34 days 21½ hours, and therefore probably belong to the same planet as the others.

And so the matter stands at present. Astronomers are hardly ready to commit themselves either way, but wait for further light which must almost certainly come in the course of a few years.

The Boy Who Bathes.

The hot weather arrived in the most unexpected way on Saturday last. Trees that were leisurely putting out careful buds were suddenly compelled to rush hurriedly into leaves, and men who had not yet laid in their stock of Summer clothing blossomed temporarily with the straw hats and linen trowsers of last Summer. While all nature was thus accommodating itself to the exigencies of the season the small boy naturally followed the universal example. Accordingly on Sunday last the otherwise idle docks of the City were suddenly covered with a nude and numerous growth of small boys bent upon celebrating the arrival of Summer by public and ceremonious ablutions.

This is, of course, only the beginning of the aquatic sports in which the small boy indulges himself daily so long as the warm weather continues. Hereafter the passenger on board a river steamer will find the wharf line of the City peopled with myriads of small boys in the various stages of undress inseparable from bathing. He will see boys in their normal quantity of clothes, waiting until the neighboring policeman has vanished before they doff their rags and plunge from the pier-head. Other boys, sparsely clad in single garments, excellent doubtless, in design, but scarcely sufficient for the demands of propriety, will be seen seeking, with clamorous entreaties, their private trowsers or individual shirts, which have been purloined by previous bathers. But in the vast majority of cases the small boy, reduced to his simplest form, and enjoying alternate swimming and sun baths, will force himself upon the public gaze. It is one of the peculiarities of the boy, that he finds himself unable to bathe, except, so to speak, at the top of his lungs. Whether in or out of the water, he keeps up one prolonged and perpetual yell. He enjoys himself, and he is unselfishly anxious that the public should share his pleasure. If his motive in so doing is to be commended, his practice is, nevertheless, objectionable. Even the kindest philanthropist who sails up and down the river in company with lady friends feels a temporary desire to massacre the hordes of juvenile savages, who, with Paradisaic unconsciousness of their nakedness, send forth their piercing yells from miles of piers and bulk-heads.

At first glance the respectable public is ready to share this bloody sentiment, and to demand of the City authorities that the boys who bathe in public shall be soundly punished for their outrage against decency. But is not the small boy who has bathed, in every way preferable to the one who has not? Setting aside from consideration the pleasure that he takes in his free and easy bath, is it not in the highest degree important that the boys belonging to the poorer classes of our population should practice daily bathing? We desire to ward off the approach of a pestilence during the coming Summer. Is there any better sanitary measure than that which should induce every boy who inhabits the squalid region along the river, to keep his skin in vigorous and healthy action, by the daily swimming bath?

Now if these boys are to bathe, they must bathe from the piers. The two public swimming baths that are provided by the City are absurdly inadequate to the needs of the public, and they are moreover monopolized to a great degree by men and women. If we sternly enforce the law which forbids the boys to bathe along the docks, we simply compel them to go without bathing during the hottest season of the year. The question is, not merely whether the boys shall be permitted to bathe in public, but whether they shall be allowed to bathe at all. It is undoubtedly a nuisance and a disgrace to the City, that passengers on the river steamboats should be annoyed by the sight of hundreds of naked boys yelling at the top of their lungs, but in order to prevent this evil, shall we foster the other evil of depriving those to whom bathing is most necessary, of all opportunity to practice so necessary a precaution against disease?

Of course the true remedy for the whole matter is the establishment of a sufficient number of public bath-houses. Until this is done, however, shall we put a peremptory stop to all public bathing? There is no prospect that the City will supply proper bathing facilities during the coming Summer. Either the boys must be allowed to bathe, while the public judiciously looks the other way, or what is undoubtedly an offense against decency must be suppressed at the serious loss of the public health.

MINOR TOPICS.

We have already had to chronicle the first case of sunstroke for the present season. As the Summer promises to be an unusually hot one, sunstrokes will doubtless frequently appear in the weekly death list. People ought to be aware that the direct rays of the sun are not necessary in order to produce sunstroke. Any violent exercise, even if engaged in within doors, is liable to result in the overheating of the system and consequent nervous exhaustion popularly known as sunstroke. The only way in which to escape this peril is to keep cool and avoid over-exertion. It should also be remembered that the immediate treatment in cases of sunstroke is to bathe the head with cold water and to administer stimulants internally.

The advantages of carrying a pistol were illustrated on Sunday, in Brooklyn, by a young man, who accidentally killed his mother. He was endeavoring to defend himself from the violence of a drunken acquaintance, and suspecting that the latter was about to shoot him, he drew his own pistol. His mother interfered to separate the two, and in the struggle was instantly killed by the accidental discharge of her son's weapon. These two young men, neither of whom was twenty years of age, appear to have been in the habit of carrying loaded revolvers. At least one of them was also in the habit of drinking to excess. Perhaps the young fellow who shot his mother will hereafter doubt the advantages of carrying deadly weapons. The other fellow will probably continue to carry his pistol until he kills some one in a moment of drunken rage.

A correspondent calls our attention to an error in a recent paragraph on the Treasury returns for the quarter ending March 31. The saving in expenses was stated at $2,518,992. It should have been just $10,000,000 more—a correction which most readers probably made from the figures accompanying.

Dr. GURNEY, who was the physician of Mr. MILL, is authority for the statement that that gentleman persisted in living at his residence at Avignon, though he knew that it was unhealthy, and refused to have the trees about the house cut down, for fear the nightingales would be driven away. Erysipelas, of which Mr. MILL died, was known to be endemic in the valley where his house was situated, but he wished to be near the cemetery where his wife's tomb was. No one can refuse sympathy for the motives from which this course of Mr. MILL sprang; but however beautiful they may have been in spirit, they were strangely in conflict with the utilitarian philosophy.

The Louisiana Troubles.

NEW-ORLEANS, May 26.—Gens. De Blanc, De Clouet, and others, from St. Martins, were tried to-day before the United States Commissioner. There being no evidence to sustain the charges against them, they were discharged.

Gov. Kellogg's Attorney this morning, in the First District Court, filed an information against M. M. Cohen and C. R. Railey, jointly charged with attempting to murder W. P. Kellogg. The defendants were bailed in $5,000 each.

CREDIT MOBILIER.

The Bill in Equity Filed Against the Pacific Railroad and the Credit Mobilier.

The bill then states the provisions of the act of Congress authorizing the suit, and the different acts creating these corporations, the organization of the company, and construction of the road, &c. The bill recites that the company was required to complete the road by July 1, 1873; to file its assent to the acts, under the seal of the company, in the Department of the Interior; to otherwise comply with the provisions of the said acts; to pay at maturity the bonds issued to the company by the United States; to keep said railroad and telegraph line in repair, and use it to transact at all times dispatches over said telegraph line, and transport mails, troops, ammunition of war, supplies, and public stores upon said railroad for the Government, whenever required to do so by any department thereof; to allow the Government at all times preference in the use of the railroad and telegraph for all purposes aforesaid, at fair and reasonable rates of compensation not to exceed the amounts paid by private parties for the same kind of service; to allow to be applied one-half of all the compensation for services rendered for the Government to the payment of the bonds issued to the company by the United States, and interest on the same until fully paid, and after said road should be completed until said bonds and interest are paid; to apply annually at least five per centum of the net earnings of said road to the payment thereof.

It was also provided that whenever it appears that the net earnings of the entire road and telegraph, including the amount allowed for services rendered for the United States, after deducting all the expenditures, including repairs and furnishing, running and managing, of said road, shall exceed ten per cent. upon its cost, exclusive of the five per centum to be paid to the United States, Congress may reduce the rates thereon, if unreasonable in amount, and may fix and establish the same by law, and, also, having due regard to the rights of said company, may alter, amend, or repeal said acts.

Paragraph Second.—The Union Pacific Railroad Company filed in the Department of the Interior its assent to the acts within the time fixed by law; was duly organized by the election of directors and officers in October, 1863, and such proceedings were taken in the name of the corporation, and under pretence of compliance with laws relating to it; that the line of railroad and telegraph which the company was authorized to build was in working order and in use on or before the middle of July, 1869, and has been worked and used ever since.

Paragraph Third.—The sections of railroad and telegraph constituting said company's lines were, from time to time, and successively as built reported by the company to the United States as completed, duly examined on behalf of the United States by commissioners appointed by the President, and were accepted, some unconditionally, others only provisionally, with specified conditions on the part of the United States and stipulations on the part of the company for making the work more complete and satisfactory according to the requirements of acts of Congress; that the conditions and stipulations for making the works more complete in conformity with said acts of Congress have not been performed and complied with to the satisfaction of the United States. On April 10, 1869, the President of the United States appointed a board of five eminent citizens not interested in said railroad, to examine and report upon the condition of it, and the committee so appointed, on Oct. 30, 1869, reported numerous deficiencies in the construction thereof, requiring a further expenditure of $1,586,100 to supply the deficiencies and make it conform to law.

Paragraph Fourth.—At different dates, beginning May 24, 1866, and ending July 14, 1870, the United States issued to said company currency bonds, due in thirty years, with interest payable semi-annually, in all respects as provided for by acts of Congress, to the aggregate amount of $27,236,512, which bonds were sold by said company, and are outstanding. On these bonds the company has failed and refused to pay the interest which has accrued and is accruing, and the same has been paid by the United States as it fell due; after deducting from amount of interest so paid by the United States the amount for Government transportation allowed by law to be deducted, an aggregate liability of said company to the United States on said interest account remained on the 1st of January, 1873, of the amount of $6,198,709 77, making the aggregate liabilities of the company at that date on United States bonds issued to the company, principal and interest secured by lien under act of Congress on the property of the company, of $33,435,221 77; the balance so existing by reason of the non-payment of interest by the company is rapidly accumulating.

Paragraph Fifth.—On the 1st November, 1865, the said Union Pacific Railroad Company entered into a deed of indenture with Edwin D. Morgan and Oakes Ames, trustees, to secure the payment of first mortgage bonds, to be issued under the tenth section of the act of 1865, which deed conveyed in the way of trust and mortgage to said trustees, the survivor of them, and to their successor or successors, the railroad and telegraph of said company from Omaha to the western terminus, constructed and to be constructed, with all its lands, tenements, hereditaments, rights of way, and easements acquired or to be acquired for the purpose of right of way for single, double, or other track, railroad and telegraph line, and for depots, engine-houses, car-houses, &c., and also all the franchises of said company for the purpose of building and operating said railroad and telegraph, and also the rails, depots, &c., and also the goods and chattels of said company necessary to said railroad and telegraph line, or running and operating the same; said conveyance contained on the part of said company among other covenants not to take advantage of the extension laws, or appraisement laws of the States or Territories, and for further assurance; and at a different date, or since the execution of said deed, said company issued its first mortgage coupon bonds, payable thirty years from date, bearing six per cent. interest, payable semi-annually, and disposed of them to the aggregate amount of $27,237,000, said bonds being dated and bearing interest from their sales. The whole amount of these bonds is outstanding against the company, and is unpaid except as interest, which has been regularly paid thereof.

Paragraph Sixth.—On the 16th of April, 1867, the Union Pacific Railroad Company entered into a deed of indenture with Cyrus H. McCormick and John Duff, trustees and defendants herein, in the way of trust and mortgage, to secure the payment of land grants, so-called. Under said deed of trust and mortgage the Union Pacific Railroad Company issued its so-called grant bonds to the amount of $10,400,000, bearing various dates, from the 16th of April, 1867, to 1st of April, 1869, with interest at seven per centum from their dates down to Jan. 1, 1873. The company sold land covered by said deed of trust and mortgage to the extent of 651,588 acres, the price of which sales amounted to $2,857,554. Part of this sum has been applied to the redemption of bonds issued, but there remains of said bonds outstanding and unpaid $8,811,000. Said company intends to go on selling said bonds, and claims the right to sell them and apply the proceeds to the redemption of the Land Grant bonds, to that extent exhausting the security of the United States for the repayment of their bonds.

Paragraph seventh refers to the issue of $10,000,090 income bonds. All these bonds are outstanding and unpaid.

Paragraph eighth refers to the $1,000 bridge bonds and mortgage. The amount of said special bridge bonds now outstanding is $2,468,000.

Paragraph ninth refers to the sinking-fund bonds to be issued.

Paragraph tenth refers to the floating debt of about $2,000,000. The company also issued certificates for its stock to the amount of at least $36,762,300, all of which stock is outstanding and in the hands of persons claiming the right by reason of it to take part in proportion to the amounts held in the management of the company.

Paragraph eleventh refers to to the Godfrey and Wardwell coal contracts, and claims that the lease of the company's coal-lands is illegal.

Paragraph twelfth refers to the agreement with the Atlantic and Pacific Telegraph Company; recites that the government is unable, without the aid of legal proceedings, to discover the nature of the arrangement between the Union Pacific and this telegraph company; are informed, and believe, that the managers of the two companies are in part or in the whole the same, and that their arrangement is a fraudulent device to make for the managers more profit than they could lawfully make, and to deprive the United States of its lawful security and advantage from said telegraph.

Paragraph thirteenth refers to the arrangement with the Pullman Palace-car Co., and recites that it is an arrangement between the stockholders and managers of the Union Pacific Railroad Company with said Palace-car Company, by which the car company obtains privileges and profits from said railroad company, not for the interest of the company to give, and by which the managers and stockholders of said railroad company, or some of them, fraudulently obtain for themselves profits for the use of the road which in equity belong to the railroad company.

Paragraph fourteenth refers to the agreement with the Omaha Bridge Transfer Company, which it also characterizes as fraudulent.

Paragraph fifteenth claims that the Union Pacific is insolvent; that the cost of the railroad and telegraph line was considerably less than one-half the sum represented by the aggregate of stock and other pretended liabilities of the company outstanding; that the larger part of the stock and bonds of the company before mentioned was issued in the name of the company by its managers, not in the interest of the company, but to enrich themselves, in a manner and for purposes unauthorized by law. A large majority of the stock now habitually voted as of right in electing officers and controlling the affairs of the company, is stock issued in a manner not authorized by law, which was never paid for in cash, or in any other thing of an equivalent value to the company. A large part of its income is used habitually in paying its managers high interest on the bonds issued unnecessarily without lawful motion or adequate consideration. The earnings have not been sufficient to pay the accruing interest on its floating debt, and on the several classes of bonds issued by the company; $10,000,000 of its income bonds so far called will be due in September, 1874, but no funds have been provided, or are accumulating, for either new ties and rails, or the payment of said income bonds. The interest on the bonds issued to the company is allowed to accumulate without payment. As before stated, the company is insolvent, and obliged to depend on temporary loans to save its obligations and promises from dishonor. Its principal managers treat it as depending on their personal credit, to save it from bankruptcy, and make profit by loaning it money for high interest and commission.

Paragraph sixteenth refers to early transactions of the Union Pacific Railroad Company, and the intent of its managers.

Paragraph seventeenth recites the by-laws and officers.

Paragraph eighteenth refers to the Hoxie contract, and claims that the prices were excessive.

Paragraph nineteenth refers to the Credit Mobilier Corporation, its charter, organization, stockholders, and management, in much the same manner as in the report of the Congressional Committee.

Paragraph twentieth refers to the intent of parties defendant who controlled it.

Paragraphs twenty-first and twenty-second refer to the purchase of stock of the Union Pacific in the name of the Credit Mobilier, and the fraudulent allotments of stock so purchased to the defendants heretofore named.

Paragraph twenty-third gives the amount received in dividends on first mortgage bonds of the Union Pacific by each of the defendants in the suit.

Paragraph twenty-fourth refers to the ownership of Credit Mobilier stock, and claims that the managements of both the Credit Mobilier and Union Pacific were the same.

Paragraph twenty-fifth refers to the fraudulent dividend of the Union Pacific stock of fifty-eight miles west of the one hundredth meridian, and gives the names of the defendants who received allotments and dividends of such stock.

Paragraph twenty-sixth claims that all the defendants were jointly interested in the Hoxie contract.

Paragraph twenty-seventh refers to the Ames contract, and claims that it was a direct spoliation of the Union Pacific to the extent of $6,000,000.

Paragraph twenty-eighth refers to the first three dividends under the Oakes Ames contract.

Paragraph twenty-ninth refers to the papers by which the Credit Mobilier was dismissed from the arrangement.

Paragraph thirtieth refers to the last three dividends under the Ames contract.

Paragraph thirty-first refers to the pretended Davis contract.

Paragraph thirty-second charges that the land grant and income bonds were fraudulently issued and disposed of among the defendants.

Paragraph thirty-third claims that all the pretended contracts with Hoxie, Ames and Davis were invalid, and the issue of the stock and bonds fraudulent.

Paragraph thirty-fourth refers to the subscriptions to the stock of the Union Pacific by the contractors, and the manner of making the pretended payments for the same. Neither the Credit Mobilier of America, nor the trustees have ever paid any of these subscriptions, or for any portion of the large numbers of shares of stock issued to them by the officers of the Union Pacific Railroad Company, nor were any assessments made upon said subscriptions for the stock of said Union Pacific Railroad Company, as required by law, but said defendants acting in the unlawful and fraudulent manner hereinbefore set forth, allowed the excessive prices agreed to be paid to the Credit Mobilier of America under the Hoxie contract, and to said trustees under the so-called Ames and Davis contracts, to be charged against the said Union Pacific Railroad Company in the construction accounts of said railroad and telegraph line, under said pretended contracts, and also caused the said Union Pacific Railroad Company to credit said Credit Mobilier of America and said trustees with such excessive charges, and thus set off the contract prices against the subscription in the accounts between the said parties. The excess of the par value of the original stock of the Union Pacific over the assessments paid by the original subscribers thereto, in good faith, was also allowed to the Credit Mobilier in the same manner under the Hoxie contract. The said Union Pacific Company has not settled with the Credit Mobilier for the pretended performance of the Hoxie contract, and with said trustees for the pretended performance of the so-called Oakes Ames and Davis contracts, but the accounts of said railroad company with said contracts, and with said parties remain open and unsettled, with large balances claimed by said parties against said railroad. All such pretended payment for subscriptions growing out of the unlawful and fraudulent transactions herein set forth are void and of no effect, and said pretended balances are fictitious, and should not be allowed. Among other pretended debts of said Union Pacific Railroad Company outstanding is a note for $2,000,000, given to said Credit Mobilier in consideration of said pretended balance due on the Hoxie contract, but actually without any value received by the Union Pacific Railroad Company. Said notes claimed to be held by Elisha Atkinson, one of the defendants under the same pretended trust, which is not admitted to be valid.

Paragraph thirty-fifth—The said defendants hereinbefore named caused a lot of large amounts of money belonging to the corporation to be expended for unlawful purposes upon objects not within the scope of the corporate powers of said company—to wit, in procuring legislation from Congress for their benefit, and in improperly influencing public officers in the discharge of their duty, and in litigations to which said corporation was not a party, or in which it had no interest, and were private interests to said defendants hereinbefore named, and the sums thus wrongfully appropriated from the Treasury by said company at various times amounting in the aggregate to $1,000,000 and upward.

Paragraph thirty-sixth refers to fraudulent transactions of Bushnell in 1869.

Paragraph thirty-seventh said the defendants also made further divisions and distributions among themselves of the assets of said Union Pacific Railroad Company in cash, bonds, stocks, property, and rights of property, and also other allowances to themselves in the pretended sale of said bonds, stock, and other property of the corporation to themselves, and paid to and divided among themselves large amounts of property of said company as commissions or compensation for loans or services which complainants are unable to set forth particularly and in detail as to dates and amounts, and the names of defendants benefited thereby, but all of which amount to a very large sum, to wit, to the sum of $17,000,000 in excess of the amounts hereinbefore particularly set forth.

Paragraph thirty-eighth claims that stocks and bonds so divided are still held by the defendants.

Paragraph thirty-ninth claims that the financial condition of the Union Pacific Railroad Company is such that its managers may, when it may seem to them advantageous for their private purposes, allow interest on the first mortgage bonds, to mature without payment, and the road and its appurtenance to be sold under the deed of trust and mortgage, and indefinitely exhaust the security of the United States.

Paragraph fortieth claims that the company exceeds its power in issuing portions of the first mortgage bonds, and all of the land grant bonds, and income bonds, and stock and bonds issued in the name of said railroad company in fulfillment of the unlawful purposes hereinbefore set forth, are unlawfully issued, and are not valid as against the company, except in the hands of bona fide purchasers, without notice if such there be.

Paragraph forty-first claims that the trustees are responsible for stock and bonds so issued.

Paragraph forty-second recites the grants to the Union Pacific and the rights of the United States.

Paragraph forty-third claims that the present management of the road is adverse to the interest of the United States.

Paragraph forty-fourth relates to the rights of the United States as to the management of the company.

Paragraph forty-fifth relates indirectly to the Congressman who received dividends, and asks leave to make all such beneficiaries defendants in the suit when discovered.

Paragraph forty-sixth prescribes certain interrogatories to be made to the several defendants for the purpose of collecting the names of Congressmen and others who received dividends through trustees.

Paragraph forty-seven consists of prayers for special and general relief, requiring the Union Pacific Railroad Company to account for all grants of the United States; declaring all property granted by acts of Congress a trust fund; declaring the Hoxie, Ames, and Davis contracts fraudulent; declaring the Land Grant and Income Bonds unlawfully issued; to ascertain the price and consideration for everything; that all parties who subscribed for but did not pay full value for stock be decreed to return the property to the company; requiring the payment in full for the stock in money; that First Mortgage Land Grant and Income bonds be surrendered to the company and canceled, and all the stock issued by the company which has not passed into the hands of bona fide purchasers without notice, the par value of which cannot be collected in money, shall be decreed to be surrendered to the company and canceled; that the trustees under the Ames and Davis contracts be declared jointly and severally bound to pay to the Union Pacific Company in money, and make good to said company, the whole amount of bonds and stock improperly issued to them; that all defendants who received from the Union Pacific Company, directly or indirectly, through or by the Credit Mobilier, or pretended trustees under the Ames or Davis contract, any bonds or stocks of the company in the way of a dividend, distribution, allotment, or otherwise, may be decreed to be jointly and severally responsible therefor, and pay the amount thereof to the said railroad in cash; the financial condition of said company may be decreed to be reformed, so that the actual cost and fair price of the construction and equipment, over and above the amount of the proceeds of the United States bonds issued to said company, shall be represented only by stock fully paid, or if this cannot be done, that any excess of the cost and fair price over the price of the United States bonds, and of uncanceled, fully paid stock, shall be represented by the first-mortgage bonds of said company, and all excess of stock and of first mortgage bonds shall be canceled, and all income bonds and land grant bonds and mortgages and trusts made by the Union Pacific Railroad Company, with reference to said land grant bonds and income bonds, be decreed to be canceled; that an account be taken of the sums improperly expended, or expended for improper purposes by authority of defendants hereinbefore specially named, out of the assets of said company, and that they be required to return the same to the treasury of said company with interest; that Bushnell be decreed to account for the value of any and all property disposed of by him, the profits realized from the same, &c.; that the Union Pacific Railroad Company be enjoined from making or permitting to be made any use of its revenues, receipts, and credits which shall disable them from paying interest from time to time as it shall mature on the first mortgage bonds of the company, from paying interest on principal on any first mortgage land grants or income bonds which were distributed as dividends or allotments of profit to shareholders in any way, from making, issuing, selling, or in any way pledging or disposing of any sinking fund or other bonds, under the act for the issue of $16,000,000 in amount of a sinking fund, or from in any way disposing of any other stock or bonds of the company, or from making any contracts without reporting the same to this court and obtaining its confirmation; that Durant, Ames, Alley, Dillon, Bushnell, McComb, Baker, and Duff, be enjoined from any transfer, sale, and other disposition of bonds or stock of the company held or controlled by them; that all the defendants be enjoined from disposing of the property received by them in the way of dividends or allotments; that the Credit Mobilier Corporation be enjoined from the disposition of such stocks or bonds of the Union Pacific, and from any transfer, sale, or distribution among its stockholders of the assets of any kind belonging to said company; that the Atlantic and Pacific Telegraph Company, the Wyoming Coal and Mining Company, the Omaha Bridge Transfer Company be similarly enjoined and prevented from making further contracts without reporting to this court; that all defendants in this suit be enjoined from receiving any dividends or interest directly or indirectly in bond stock received as profits or allotments under the Hoxie, Ames, and Davis contracts; that the Union Pacific Company be enjoined from paying any pretended balance under the Hoxie contract, and also from paying their said note for $2,000,000; that the Union Pacific Company be enjoined from making any further payment to and from transferring or delivering any profits to the company or so-called trustees, under the Ames contract and Davis contract, on account of any pretended balance due, and that the said defendants be enjoined from taking any legal steps for collecting the balances.

Paragraph forty-eight prays for preliminary injunctions and subpoenas of the defendants.

The papers are signed by Attorney General Williams and counsel Perry, Jenckes, and Ashton.

The Monitor Terror.

PHILADELPHIA, May 26.—The United States monitor Terror, Capt. Spicer, arrived off Fort Mifflin yesterday afternoon, discharged her powder and ordnance stores, and came up to the Navy-yard last night, and, this morning, hauled alongside of the dock. The Terror has been at Key West for the past two years, and has come north for extensive repairs. She was conveyed north by the Powhatan. One death occurred on the passage up.

LOCAL MISCELLANY.

THE CARPENTERS.

Exaggerated Rumors Concerning the Actions of the Trade—No Strike Intended.

According to several of the morning papers, the carpenters of this City were to have commenced the week by inaugurating a "stupendous strike" yesterday. The most thorough organization had been effected, and the other trades were to follow suit immediately. The establishment of the eight-hour system was to have been peremptorily demanded, and it was hinted that the demand would be enforced at all hazards. One paper went so far as to state that the Teutonia Assembly Rooms, in Third-avenue, had been fixed on as the head-quarters of the strikers. Early in the forenoon a TIMES reporter was detailed to look after the strike. He visited every place in the City where the carpenters hold meetings, and also visited a good many of the principal work-shops, without discovering the smallest sign of a strike. The new Superintendent of Police, deriving his knowledge of the facts from the sensational and utterly groundless reports contained in some of the morning papers, issued, early in the day, a general order to the Captains of Police warning them that in consequence of the strike of the carpenters in this City they should be very energetic in preventing and repressing disturbances, and to preserve the peace at all hazards in their precincts. The Captains were furthermore instructed that they must afford those men who desire to work ample protection and prevent any violence toward them by the strikers. In case of disturbances assuming formidable proportions, information should at once be dispatched by telegraph to the Central Office.

This order caused among citizens generally a good deal of unnecessary alarm, which might easily have been prevented. The most casual inquiry would have elicited the fact that there was no visible sign of a strike. Among the carpenters the general order caused the utmost indignation, which was expressed in no measured terms at a meeting held last evening in Demilt Hall. It was the regular weekly meeting, but owing to the wild rumors to which circulation had been given, the attendance was unusually large. The officers of the United Order of American Carpenters, the largest and most important organization of that craft in the City, denied, emphatically, that there was any strike, or that any strike was intended. They had nothing to strike for, they said. All their men were working eight hours, and none of the bosses had attempted to enforce a return to the ten-hour system. The mass-meeting held at Republican Hall on Friday was as much in the interests of the employers as of the men. The object was to try and induce the men working in ten-hour shops—and who, of course, did not belong to the society—to demand eight hours, so that employers who acceded to the demands of the men last Summer could compete in the matter of estimates, on equal terms with those who did not. The resolution passed at the meeting on Friday was, therefore, they said, intended to express the sense of the meeting, participated in as it was by large numbers of men who were working ten hours. It meant simply that those who were working in ten-hour shops should strike for the eight hours. The society men promised moral support, but did not in any other way undertake to support the proposed strike. In several of the ten-hour shops some of the men yesterday demanded the eight hours, and when refused many of them gave notice that in future they would not work unless on the eight-hour system. In most instances this demand was not made until the close of the day, and in no reported instance did all the men employed in one shop make the demand. From reports received by individual members of the United Order of American Carpenters it is estimated that in all about 200 men went on strike. The strikers have no organization, do not belong to any society, and as yet have made no attempt to come together. The society men, beyond guaranteeing that unionists will not be allowed to fill the places of the strikers, have taken no action in the matter. In Murphy's shop, in Forty-fourth-street, between Third and Lexington avenues, the men—unionists—have been on strike for the past three weeks. Yesterday they went back, the eight-hour system having been re-established in the shop. In the shop of O'Brien & Johnson, on South-street, and in the shop of Jennings & Brown, on East Eighteenth-street, a number of men struck last evening, but with what prospect of success could not be ascertained.

The Amalgamated Society of Carpenters and Joiners also had a meeting last evening at Menzinger's Hall, in West Thirty-second-street. All the men in their union are working eight hours, and there is, they say, no cause to fear a strike during the coming Summer. There are at present in New-York about 5,000 carpenters and joiners. The great majority of these belong to either of the two societies mentioned, and a great many others who do not belong to the society work only eight hours. The United Order of American Carpenters some time ago appointed a committee to canvass the City thoroughly and ascertain just how many employers were working their shops on the eight-hour system. They assert that there are not any of the large employers doing so. At present the men say that an excellent understanding prevails between themselves and the employers. There are some important questions pending relative to trade matters generally and to the Employers' Association, as a body, adopting the eight-hour system. Several conferences have been held between committees from the employers and the men, and the last one took place about two weeks ago. At that meeting the representatives of the workmen refused to accede to any increase of wages in lieu of the eight hours. The committee from the employers were not, on their part, authorized to yield the eight hours until they have reported at the meeting of the Employers' Association, which takes place in June. In the meantime, the best feeling prevails between the employers and the men. The Cabinet-makers' Society, which is composed almost exclusively of Germans, has declared its intention not to strike this Summer.

Alleged Piracy of Bret Harte's Works.

In the United States Circuit Court before Judge Blatchford, a motion for an injunction in the case of James R. Osgood & Co., impleaded with Bret Harte against Albert L. Lyster, was brought to a hearing. Mr. Walker, for complainant, said the injunction was to restrain defendants from selling and importing copies of Mr. Harte's works copyrighted in this country, of which pirated editions had been printed in England and imported by defendants. Copies of Condensed Novels and East and West Poems printed by John Camden Hotten, London, and sold by defendants, were the same as sold by Osgood & Co. An invoice of similar goods was lying in the Custom-house. Bills had been filed to compel an accounting for all such books previously sold, and a forfeiture of those in defendant's possession, and for an injunction to restrain sales and importations. Mr. Law, for defendants, pleaded ignorance of the copyright of Mr. Harte, and stated his clients had ceased to commit the grievances complained of. He read affidavits stating that the articles in question were published in the Overland Monthly and other journals before Mr. Harte took out his copyright, and the novel question arose, on which no American authority could be cited, that the voluntary publication of articles by an author without copyright was a dedication of the same to the public, and that he could not subsequently gather them together, and, uniting them with new matter, claim a special ownership in such a compilation, or secure a valid copyright in the works. After hearing Mr. Walker in reply, Judge Blatchford held that the objections of defendants could not be sustained, and ordered that an injunction issue as prayed for by the bill.

New-York and Oswego Midland Railroad.

A meeting of prominent parties interested in the New-York and Oswego Midland Railroad was held at No. 111 Liberty-street yesterday afternoon. Mr. George Opdyke refused the presidency of the road unless $5,000,000 were raised to pay off its debts and build its missing connections. A compromise was finally arrived at, by which he agreed to accept the presidency if $4,000,000 were raised. At last accounts yesterday $3,700,000 had been subscribed, and it seemed likely that the remaining $300,000 would be obtained.

Brigham Young, Jr., in the Tombs.

Among the number of persons who visited the Tombs yesterday were three distinguished residents of Salt Lake City. The party was composed of Mr. Brigham Young, Jr., eldest son of the head of the Mormon Church, and Elders Cannon and Ryder. They inspected the prison carefully, and had quite a long chat with some of the prisoners confined in it. After passing through the main prison, Mr. Young and his companions paid a visit to George Francis Train, with whom he had an acquaintance of several years, and called on Matron Foster, of the female prison. In conversation with a TIMES reporter, Mr. Young remarked that the story current that his father intended to leave Utah, and that the Mormon community proposed abandoning Salt Lake City, was wholly unfounded in fact. Mr. Brigham Young, Sr., favored the establishment of a new colony in Arizona, and intended to select points for new cities, but did not intend to relinquish Salt Lake City. Mr. Young, Jr., and his party left for Philadelphia last night.

The Question of Reform—Letter from Mr. Ottendorfer to John Foley.

The following letter has been sent to Mr. John Foley by Mr. Oswald Ottendorfer, in relation to a movement begun by the former to make the office of County Controller an elective one:

John Foley, Esq.:

SIR: I learn from the reports of the newspapers, that your so-called Reform Association held a meeting Saturday evening at the Fifth-avenue Hotel, at which a resolution was adopted urging the Legislature to amend the charter by making the Controller an elective officer. Now Sir, the principal, and I fear the only real and practical, result of the whole reform movement, is the control of the Finance Department under the present appointed Controller. The attempt to deprive our City of this result, in the name of reform, can only be compared with the crimes that have been committed during the great French revolution in the name of liberty, and I most earnestly protest against the connection of my name in any way with this design.

Respectfully yours,
O. OTTENDORFER.

"Dr." Browne Sentenced to Ten Years' Imprisonment.

In the Court of Oyer and Terminer yesterday morning, before Judge Davis, "Dr." Edward M. Browne, convicted of felonious assault, with intent to kill and with intent to rob Sandford E. Murray, the collector for the New-York Gas Company, was arraigned for sentence. When asked what he had to say, he answered, "Nothing that can alter the justice of the case. Nothing but what I said at my trial." In passing sentence, Judge Davis said that the case was an aggravated one, and he should impose the extreme punishment allowed by the law—ten years' confinement in State Prison, at hard labor. The prisoner is sixty-one years of age.

The Tweed Case—Another Postponement.

The argument on the special pleas to the indictments against William M. Tweed, which was to have been heard to-day before Judge Davis, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer, has been postponed until to-morrow, to allow Tweed's counsel further time to prepare the plea, and also, probably, on account of the absence in Albany of District Attorney Phelps, who has gone there to argue in the case of Stokes, before the Court of Appeals.

The Society of Friends.

The yearly meeting of the Society of Friends was held yesterday forenoon at the meeting-house, in Rutherford-place. The meeting was well attended. Charles A. Macy acted as clerk or presiding officer. The accounts from the following quarterly meetings were brought up: Westbury, embracing New-York City and Long Island; Purchase, including Westchester County; Nine Partners, or the lower part of Dutchess County; Stanford, or the upper part of Dutchess County; Duanesburg, including Albany and vicinity; Eastern and Saratoga, embracing the district from Saratoga to Vermont and Shrewsbury and Rahway, N. J. The certificates of ministers in attendance from other yearly meetings were read and approved. Two epistles from the Philadelphia and Baltimore yearly meetings were also read.

During the afternoon meeting the annual epistles from the yearly meetings of Genesee, Ohio, and Indiana were read, approved, and accepted by the meeting.

To-day the subject of the state of the society will be taken up and properly discussed; and to-morrow public meetings will be held in the meeting-houses at Rutherford-place and Twenty-seventh-street, in this City, and at the Schermerhorn-street Meeting-house, in Brooklyn.

Chastising a Ruffian.

The wife of ex-Commissioner of Police McCarthy, of Jersey City, was grossly insulted, yesterday morning, while standing in front of her own residence, by a man who subsequently gave the name of Wm. Davis. Mrs. McCarthy called her husband, who was in the house, when Davis drew a knife and dared McCarthy to touch him. He was forthwith knocked down, disarmed, and taken to the station-house. He endeavored to induce Mr. McCarthy to withdraw the charge, but failing, jumped over the railing and ran. He was pursued and caught, after which he was locked up for examination.

The Roderick Tragedy.

Yesterday afternoon Coroner Jones visited the scene of the shooting of Mrs. Ann Roderick on Sunday night, in South Brooklyn, and impaneled a jury, who, after viewing the body, which still lies at the house No. 105 Ninth-street, were dismissed, with a request to meet again on Thursday, when the inquest will commence. George Roderick and James Corcoran were brought before Justice Delmar yesterday morning, and committed to await the result of the coroner's inquest.

A Persevering Woman.

BALTIMORE, Md., May 26.—Mrs. Emma McKee, who, on the 14th inst., made an unsuccessful attempt to shoot her uncle, Oswald Noack, a wholesale boot and shoe upper manufacturer, was more successful to-day. Having this morning obtained a warrant for the arrest of her uncle, charging him with abusive conduct, she accompanied the officer to Noack's place of business, No. 146 West Baltimore-street, to identify him. The officer made the arrest, and as they were coming down stairs Mrs. McKee drew a double-barreled pistol from under her shawl, and discharged both barrels into the body of her uncle, one shot taking effect in his back, the other in the calf of his right leg. The wounds are not necessarily mortal. Mrs. McKee was arrested.

A NEWS ENTERPRISE.

Brilliant Project for Earlier Delivery of New-York Dailies West and South.

From Our Own Correspondent.

NEW-BRUNSWICK, N. J. Monday, May 26, 1873.

The people along the line of the Pennsylvania Railroad have been much excited by the report that to-day, with the new time-table of the road (which has few changes from the old one,) a "news-train" would leave New-York at 3:25 A. M., and deliver papers from two to six hours earlier than formerly. It seems that a company composed of a few individuals, whose names I cannot learn, was formed whose scheme was to run a train leaving New-York promptly at 3:25, getting to this city at 4:46, to Trenton at 5:30, and to Philadelphia at 6:52. At Philadelphia connection was to be made with early Western trains, so that Chicago news-dealers should receive their New-York papers six hours in advance of the present time. The three hours and a half allowed for the passage between New-York and Philadelphia permitted the train to stop at every little hamlet on the road, and the time-table gave the times of reaching each station. Thus Shelton, a village of wide-scattered houses, would receive its papers sooner than this considerable city. The train was to consist of but two cars, and no passengers were to be carried excepting folders to prepare the papers for delivery. The hour was fixed very early in the morning, and the late editions of the papers would be missed—a serious defect. The company were to pay the railroad company the large sum of $50,000 per annum for running this train, and were to get their money back by establishing agencies at the stations for the sale and delivery of papers in some cases, and in others to sell to the present news-dealers or else to charge them freight, as the railroad company do now. At this city the present time of arrival of the paper-train is 8:25, and our citizens do not receive their papers until 10 or 11 o'clock. The innovation would make a difference of three or four hours, and the citizens naturally were interested in the enterprise, while the accommodation to Philadelphia, the South and West would be immense.

This new train was to start this morning, but it seems that as yet the company have not complied with their contract by paying the railroad company the stipulated sum. I learn, however, that the hitch is only temporary, and that before long the train will actually be running. It is probable, too, that it will start somewhat later, so as to get the latest morning news. The enterprise must be of great importance to the Metropolitan Press. BAYARD.

AMUSEMENTS.

Dramatic and Musical.

WOOD'S THEATRE.

A new sensational drama illustrative of incidents in the Modoc war, and entitled "Captain Jack," was produced at this establishment last evening, quite a large audience being present in spite of the heat of the weather. The principal character of the piece was to have been intrusted to Mr. W. H. Whalley, but in the absence because of illness of that performer, Mr. T. W. Keene appeared as the Modoc Chief, and whooped, yelled, brandished his tomahawk, and stole upon his intended victims with a success which the great red-skin murderer and robber might have envied. The subordinate parts were assigned to Messrs. Mestayer, Wallace, and others. Mr. Sheldon, who figured in the play as Ephraim Snuffle, a "man of peace," by his excellent make-up and quaint humor, added much to the effectiveness of the piece. Miss Theresa Wood filled the rôle of an Indian boy, in which character, by the way, she will come forth on the occasion of her benefit this evening. "Captain Jack" will be repeated for four nights only, and will then be withdrawn to make room for other novelties.

MR. WIENIAWSKI'S FAREWELL.

Mention has already been made of Mr. Wieniawski's farewell concert, to occur on Friday evening, May 30. The sale of seats for this highly-attractive affair will be commenced to-morrow.

City Printing.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

Wishing to estimate for the City Record, I visited the Mayor's office to procure a copy of the specifications for the contract. I found there were no printed and but one manuscript copy, which has to be looked over in turn by the visitors. These specifications require the type to be new, copper-faced, of modern old style series from nonpareil to pica in size. Now, there is but one type foundry makes this type, and I have been informed not more than one office (if any) has the series of seven founts. Why require this series, when many printers who could and would estimate for the work in ordinary type, will not expend money for a contract which may be only a year in force? Why, if fairness is intended, is not the type to be agate to bourgeois, which is that in general use.

Then, the paper is to be 33 by 46 inches; seventy-five pounds to the ream, and equal to the best used by our first-class publishers, when fifty-six pounds to the ream at outside is better than generally used, and suited to this class of work. Then, the paper is to be distributed daily before 9 o'clock A. M. to all departments in manner as the Mayor directs. How is it to reach Harlem and Westchester by that time, and to fulfill this clause, look at the expense. Every newspaper published in New-York City is to be supplied with two copies free; there are 376 papers here, and Westchester will make the number about 400, as reported by Messrs. Rowell & Co., and the public can buy them at ten cents each.

There is no definite information as to how many or in what manner they are to be distributed; the specifications should be fuller, printed, and a sample copy of the Record, two pages, gotten up for estimators' use. Those who wish to estimate do it at great disadvantage under present circumstances, and, in addition, I am informed the superintendent who has sole charge, is the present City printer, and that he is not a practical man. Is there a job in this? There is room open for one under the present specifications. Who has this particular type on hand, and who has a lot of paper, as stated, seventy-five pounds to the ream. PRINTER.

Summer,

Although the mother of myriads of beautiful flowers, is apt to steal the roses from the cheeks of those who are exposed to its fiery breath. At this season if there are any germs of disease in the system, the heat is pretty sure to develop them. The bilious, the dyspeptic, the nervous, the debilitated, suffer more at this period of the year than at any other. They, therefore, require an invigorating and regulating medicine, and this desideratum has been placed within the reach of all in the form of HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS. To recount the uses of this invaluable preventive and remedy, seems like repeating a familiar fact that has been notorious everywhere for many, many years. Who does not know that dyspepsia, bilious disorders, constipation, diarrheal affections, rheumatism, nervous complaints, kidney disturbances, and constitutional weakness in both sexes are relieved and radically cured by this powerful yet harmless vegetable preparation?

MISCELLANEOUS.

CURIOUS! ART SALE!

THIS (TUESDAY) EVENING.

Also, WEDNESDAY EVENING, at the Clinton Hall Sale-rooms.

An extraordinary collection of Antique Furnitures, China, Delfts, Mirrors, Sgraffito Ware, Brass Work, Repoussé Metal Work, Bronzes, Clocks, Music Boxes, Armor, Bookcases, Tables, Dutch Silver Cupboards, Oriental Carpets, Turkish and Moorish Tapestries, &c., &c. The Messrs. LEAVITT, Auctioneers.

TO ALL, AND PARTICULARLY INVALIDS.—This is a trying season. Indications of sickness should at once be attended to. Fatal diseases may be caused by allowing the bowels to become constipated, and the system to remain in a disordered condition until the disorder has had time to develop itself. An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure, is an old and truthful saying. Therefore, we advise all who are troubled with the complaints now very prevalent—headache, indigestion, disordered liver, want of appetite, nausea, or feverish skin, to take, without delay, DR. SCHENCK'S MANDRAKE PILLS. We know of no remedy so harmless and decisive in its action. It at once strikes at the root of the disease and produces a healthy tone to the system. People never need suffer from any disease arising from a disordered condition of the liver if they would take this excellent medicine when they feel the first indications of the malady. Families leaving home for the Summer months should take three or four boxes of these pills with them. They have an almost instantaneous effect. They will relieve the patient of headache in one or two hours, and will rapidly cleanse the liver of surrounding bile, and will effectually prevent a bilious attack. They are sold by all druggists. JNO. F. HENRY, Nos. 8 and 9 College-place, New-York, Wholesale Agent.

R. STUART WILLIS, ATTORNEY AND Counselor at Law, Notary Public, No. 182 Broadway, Room No. 4, New-York.

TRUSTEES' SALE

Seventy-Six Acres of Land
AT HOLLINGBOURNE, SCARBOROUGH,
ON HUDSON RIVER.

HUGH N. CAMP will sell at auction on TUESDAY, May 27, 1873, at 12 o'clock, at the Exchange Sales-room, No. 111 Broadway, Trinity Building, New-York.

SALE BY ORDER OF THE
TRUSTEES OF THE ROBERT BOORMAN ESTATE,
HUDSON RIVER PROPERTY,
HOLLINGBOURNE, SCARBOROUGH, N. Y.

The estate lies about three-eighths of a mile from the station, and one and one-half mile south of Sing Sing. It contains about seventy-six acres of fine land, with a front on the New-York and Albany Road, or Broadway, of over one-half mile, with a splendid mansion, stable, lodge, and greenhouses, all built of brick and cement, in the most substantial manner, without regard to cost. It also has a number of frame cottages, barns, and out-houses of frame, for laborers, &c. Its extensive front on Broadway renders it well adapted for cutting up into thirteen plots, all of them having handsome views of the Hudson River. A fine stream runs the whole length of the property, capable of making three beautiful ponds. It is well wooded, and from its commanding position and nearness to the flourishing village of Sing Sing, makes this one of the most desirable opportunities for a person desirous of securing a home which cannot fail to increase largely in value. The whole will be put up at an upset price; if not sold, will then be offered in plots, and sold to the highest bidder. Seventy per cent. of the purchase-money can remain on bond and mortgage for three years at seven per cent. Maps and full particulars at the office of the auctioneer, No. 106 Broadway, corner of Pine-st., New-York.

Fourth, all of the road from the Sabine River to the City of Houston, in the State of Texas, with all the lands, right of way, superstructions, buildings, depots, stations, station-houses, shops, rolling stock, machinery, materials, appertaining or belonging to the line of road from the Sabine River aforesaid to the City of Houston, and exclusively belonging to the same, and any other real and personal property, franchises, rights of way, tolls, grants of privileges not herein described, and which are included in the said deed; and it is to be understood that the sale under this deed of trust, and the decree herein mentioned, is to be subject to a deed of trust bearing date the 1st day of January, 1869, by the said corporation to Oakes Ames and Edwin D. Morgan, trustees, and which affects that portion of the said road and property before mentioned lying within the cities of New-Orleans and Mobile and between the said cities, and is not to impair in any manner the incumbrance aforesaid or the rights under the said deed, the said mortgage or deed to said parties being made to secure a uniform series of bonds of four thousand in number, and each for one thousand dollars, with interest, coupons attached of forty dollars each, payable semi-annually on the 1st of January and July of each year, and bearing even date with the mortgage, and which is referred to in the said mortgage or deed of trust to the plaintiff in this suit. And it is further understood that the property included in the second and third or other parcels above described, being the property lying westerly of the City of New-Orleans and the Mississippi River, in the States of Louisiana and Texas, shall be subject to the mortgages or deeds of trust executed by the said corporation under the power reserved in the deed of mortgage or trust described in the proceedings in this cause to issue bonds to an amount in the aggregate not exceeding twenty-five thousand dollars per mile for each mile of the railroad or railroads constructed west of the Mississippi River, which power has been executed by the said corporation by the execution of a mortgage executed to Oakes Ames and Edwin D. Morgan, dated the 15th day of March, 1870, whereby an issue of bonds to the amount of twelve thousand five hundred dollars per mile was provided for upon all the tract of road in the State of Louisiana, and the sum of twenty-five thousand dollars for all of the track west of the Louisiana line and lying in the State of Texas, which mortgage was modified by an act of mortgage dated 1st January, 1872, but does not increase the amount of the incumbrances; and also a further mortgage, bearing date 1st July, 1870, securing the payment of the second mortgage bonds guaranteed by the State of Louisiana, and which mortgage is an incumbrance on the railroad of said corporation to the west of the river Mississippi and extending to the Sabine River, and all other mortgages existing under said power. There will be prepared twenty days before the day of sale an inventory of the property to be sold in the different parcels, and copies of the mortgages will be in the hands of the Masters for exhibition to any person desiring to purchase. The power to the Trustees to bid for the bondholders is reserved in the decree. The Trustees and the Masters will give information of the matter intrusted to them prior to the sale.

Polk, New Berlin Girl, Black Prince, Fanny Fern, Contraband, Lady Backus, Coroner K., Manhattan, and Constitution. Six of these came to the post, and the race, after a close and exciting contest, was won by James K. Polk in three straight heats, although Fred was the favorite.

SECOND RACE.

The principal event of the day was the second class, in which Sensation, Young Bruno, Ed. White, Lydia Thompson, Grace Bertram, and Castle Boy were entered—three of them coming to the score, viz.. Sensation, Ed. White, and Castle Boy. The former was, of course, the favorite, at three to one over the other two.

FIRST HEAT.—They were sent off on the second attempt, with Ed. White in the lead, Sensation second, and Castle Boy third. At the turn White left his feet, and on the backstretch Sensation showed the way. At the quarter-pole, in 39 seconds, Sensation led White half a length, Castle Boy being two lengths behind. On the lower turn White passed Sensation, and reached the stand half a length in the lead in 1:29. On the turn Sensation again went to the front, but broke on the backstretch, and White once more took the lead, but he left his feet, and Sensation came to the front again, winning the heat by two lengths in 2:35, Ed. White second, the same distance in front of Castle Boy.

SECOND HEAT.—They received the word the first time on even terms, but on the turn Sensation went to the lead, White second, and Castle Boy third. On the backstretch Sensation was a length ahead of White, who was two lengths in front of Castle Boy, and at the quarter-pole, in 39 seconds, there was a length between them. On the lower turn a blanket could have covered the trio, but Castle Boy here broke and fell behind. In the meantime, Sensation left his competitors, and finished the half mile a length and a half in front of White, who was a length away from Castle Boy. Time, 1:16. On the turn again both White and Castle Boy broke, and at the three-quarter pole Sensation was leading three lengths, White second, four lengths from Castle Boy. Sensation had the heat in hand, and won easily by two lengths in 2:33, Castle Boy second, a length ahead of White.

THIRD HEAT.—The second attempt was a "go," Sensation and White being together, and Castle Boy a length behind. At the turn Sensation got away two lengths, while the Boy passed White and held the second place. At the quarter-pole, in forty seconds, Sensation still led two lengths, White going up and lapping the Boy's wheel. On the lower turn Sensation increased his lead another length, and made the half mile in 1:17. He held his own all the way to the goal, winning the heat and race in 2:36¾. White broke on the homestretch and passed Castle Boy on a run, but the latter was given the second place.

Baltimore Races—Pool Selling Last Night.

The Spring meeting of the Maryland Jockey Club begins to-day at the Pimlico Course, at Baltimore, and there is every prospect of a most brilliant meeting. There are four races to be decided. The inaugural race will be over the hurdles, two miles, welter weights, for which Lochiel and Stockwood will start. The second event will be the Preakness stakes, for three-year olds, one mile and a-half, and of the twenty-one entries, the following seven will start: Mr. Belmont's Periwinkle, by Kentucky, out of Fleur des Champs and Oaklands, by imp. D.,) 100 pounds. For the fourth event, a dash of three miles, the starters will be Edwin, John Merryman, Lucy Jackson, and Gayo. The pool selling at Chamberlin's last night on these events was not very spirited, the speculators being somewhat chary of backing their favorites until the strains are more firmly set. The pools sold ranged as follows:

YACHTING.

Race Between the Sloops Lulu and Idle Hour—Lulu the Winner.

The yachting season of 1873 was appropriately opened yesterday by a well-contested race between two small sloops, the Lulu and Idle Hour. The Lulu was built by Mr. Frank Bates during the past Winter, and is owned by Mr. G. Prague, Commodore of the Long Island Yacht Club, and sailed her maiden race, achieving her first victory, yesterday. The Idle Hour, owned by Mr. Thomas Taylor, has a good record as a racer.

The contest was for a $50 cup, to sail ten miles to windward and return, but at the last moment the course determined on was from the Idle Hour, at Greenville, to and around Robbin's Reef buoy and return, sailing the course over twice. Both yachts were ready at noon, but as usual on such occasions, the start was delayed. Meanwhile, the mainsail of the Lulu was changed for a smaller one, it being considered that her large mainsail was too much for her to carry, as the wind was then blowing fresh. In this a grave mistake was made, as the wind died away considerably before the boats started, otherwise the Lulu would have won with more time to spare, if not with more credit. The breeze was pretty good from the south, and the tide was the first of the flood, when all was ready for a start. The judges selected were Commodore Hughes, of the Oceanic Yacht Club, and ex-Commodore Gunther, of the Bayonne Club, and a large concourse of yachtsmen was assembled at the Idle Hour to witness the race. The Lulu was in charge of Capt. Joe. Morris, and with him were Commodore Sweeney, Dick Snedecor, and half a dozen of the best yacht sailers that ever turned out of Short Branch. The Idle Hour was sailed by Capt. John Lackey, and was well manned.

As the time for the start approached the Addie, Capt. Morse; Jennie, (a sloop from Short Branch, that has been in attendance at races for the last fifteen years,) Laertes, and half a dozen other yachts, all crowded, put off to see the race and give the contestants fair play.

The start was made at 2 hours 1 minute 30 seconds, both boats getting off well together, the Lulu to windward. They ran bow and bow along the Jersey shore until they struck the tide, which was running ebb to the North River, when the Idle Hour gradually forged ahead, the Lulu still maintaining the windward position. When between Governor's Island and Robbin's Reef both went about at 2 hours 30 minutes, the Idle Hour about two minutes ahead, but she lost all that advantage by standing out too far, allowing the Lulu to turn the buoy in advance.

The first turn was made by the Lulu at 2 hours 33 minutes; Idle Hour, 2 hours 33 minutes, 30 seconds. On the run home the Idle Hour overhauled and passed the Lulu, running well before the wind. The first turn of the home stake-boat was made—Idle Hour, 2 hours 57 minutes 25 seconds; Lulu, 2 hours 58 minutes 2 seconds. Both tacked for the second run over the course about one minute after passing the stake-boat, the Lulu still to windward, but the Idle Hour had the best of the race if she had been well-handled. At 3 hours 21 minutes she went about, which was fully three minutes before she ought to; the consequence was she had to tack again in order to fetch the buoy. The Lulu went about at 3 hours 26 minutes, the Idle Hour going about at the same time. Both now stretched for the buoy, which was passed as follows: Idle Hour, 3 hours 29 minutes; Lulu, 3 hours 32 minutes 15 seconds. Immediately on rounding the buoy, jibs were boomed out, sandbags heaved overboard, and each yacht sped homeward, the Idle Hour reaching the home-stake first at 3 hours 56 minutes, and the Lulu at 3 hours 59 minutes 8 seconds.

The Idle Hour measures 22 feet 4 inches, and the Lulu 20 feet 5 inches, making the time allowance, which was 2 minutes to the foot, 3 minutes 45 seconds, thus giving the race to the Lulu by 37 seconds.

Annual Regatta of the Atlantic Yacht Club—Sailing Regulations.

The eighth annual regatta of the Atlantic Yacht Club will take place Tuesday, June 10. The rendezvous for the yachts of the fleet will be off Bay Ridge, and the classification for craft sailing in the regatta will be: Schooners, first-class sloops, (cabin sloops over forty-four feet water line,) second-class sloops, (cabin sloops of forty-four feet and under water line,) third-class sloops, (open boats.) All sloops intending to sail shall be at their appointed moorings at 9 o'clock A. M. The flag of the club to which each yacht belongs will be displayed at the main peak during the regatta. The starting signal will be given from the steamer Magenta; the first whistle at 10:20 A. M. for preparation and for schooners to approach the starting point. The second whistle will be given three minutes after, for schooners to start. Ten minutes will be allowed for schooners to cross the line marked by two flag-boats; crafts not over at that time will be ruled out. Third whistle will be the signal for starting all sloops. For schooners and first-class sloops the course will be through the Narrows, to and around the stake-boat at South-west Spit, (on buoy No. 8½,) thence to and around the lightship, rounding her from the southward, thence home, going to southward and westward of beacon on Romer Shoal. For second-class sloops—to South-west Spit, thence to and around a stake-boat near a buoy in Gedney's Channel, rounding it from the southward, thence home, passing beacon on Romer Shoal to the westward. All yachts shall pass between Forts Lafayette and Richmond, to the west of buoys Nos. 11, 13, and 15, on West Bank, both going and returning; around stake-boat at South-west Spit by the westward and southward, and at home-stake between the two stake-boats marking the line. Entries must be made with the Chairman of the Regatta Committee, or with Wm. B. Davenport, No. 9 Willoughby-street, Brooklyn, before 3 P. M., June 7, and the actual measurement of the yacht over all and on water-line. Entries to be accompanied by a measurer's certificate. The address of the measurer of the club is C. T. Lippitt, Brooklyn Institute, Washington-street, Brooklyn.

BASE-BALL.

A Brilliant Game Between the Atlantics and Athletics—The Latter Win.

The Athletic and Atlantic Clubs met yesterday afternoon for the first time this season, the scene of the contest being the well-known Union Grounds of Williamsburg, and the result a hard-earned victory for the Quaker boys.

Taken as a whole, the play, in point of fielding, was more brilliant than any seen in this vicinity since the close of last season, and but for the poor throwing of Barlow, the Atlantic catcher, the Brooklyn boys must have won. The Atlantics were first to bat, and Boyd was the only man to make a base hit, driving a beauty to right field, just outside of the first baseman. The other three strikers were put out with ease. The Athletics retired in the order of striking. The second inning resulted in each side being put out in one, two, three style, Ferguson, of the Brooklyn Club, making a beautiful stop and throw, which was deservedly applauded. In the third inning Pearce let a warm grounder pass him at short stop, but this did not affect the result of the inning, as Ferguson quickly put the third hand out on a magnificent stop of a hard-hit ball from McBride's bat. Pabor, of the Atlantics, took first base on called balls, and was sent to second by Dehlman's being muffed at first by Anson. The next three strikers were captured before they could reach first base, and what looked at one time like a fair chance for the Atlantics getting in a run or two, instantly dwindled down to nothing.

The Atlantics were quickly retired in the fourth inning, but the Athletics came very near getting a man home through a wild throw by Barlow to first base. Ferguson again came to the rescue, however, with another brilliant stop of a very hard hit ball, and by throwing promptly to Barlow at the home plate prevented the run being scored. Dehlman batted well for two bags in the fifth inning, but he did not score a run, the side being promptly fielded out. Up to this time the playing on each side was brilliant in the extreme, but when the Athletics went in to bat in this inning Barlow commenced the error-making business by a most miserable throw to second base, allowing a man to go from first to third. Britt gave two bases on a wild pitch, and then Ferguson made a poor throw to first base. The result of all this was 2 runs scored by the Athletics.

Fisher went in to pitch at the beginning of the sixth inning and, as a result, the Atlantics did not make a base-hit. The prettiest play of the day was made in the last half of this inning when Ferguson, Burdock, and Dehlman disposed of a couple of Philadelphians on as sharp a double-play as was ever seen. Again the Brooklyn boys failed to score when it came their chance in the seventh inning, but through errors on the part of Ferguson, Britt, Barlow, Dehlman, and Remsen the Athletics scored 2 more runs. It now looked very much as though the Atlantic boys would get a genuine "nest-full of goose eggs," as they had been whitewashed seven times in succession and had but two more innings in which to work. Dehlman lead off with a fine hit past third base for one bag, and was sent all the way to third by Pearce, who hit a lovely ball to right field. Pearce now started for the second base for the purpose of getting Clapp to throw the ball down there so that Dehlman might have a chance to get home. The manœuvre worked like a charm, for no sooner did Clapp see Dick start than he threw the ball to Fisler. Dehlman was wide awake, and lost no time in starting for home, Pearce in the meantime keeping between the bases to engage Fisler's attention. In the confusion which ensued, Dehlman scored and Pearce took his second base. This started the Brooklyn boys and, aided by some good hitting by Boyd and Barlow, they managed to run in 2 more tallies, bringing up their score to 3, against 4 for their adversaries. The Athletics were whitewashed in this inning, as also in the ninth, and as the Atlantics failed to change their figures, the game closed with the following score:

BROOKLYN REFORM.

Reorganization of the One Hundred—The Bridge Again.

The Brooklyn Committee of One Hundred met, last evening, at the Academy of Music, and resolved on a thorough reorganization of the association. Mr. Perry, on behalf of a special committee appointed to consider the future course of the association, submitted a lengthy report, providing for an increase of the membership to 250, and assuming the responsibility of nominating candidates for political position, when the nominations of other bodies may be unsuitable. The wards, as defined by the new charter, will be represented in the committee by ten members from each. The following is the text of the new constitution:

That the association maintain its organization as a conservative, watchful, and active body for the promotion of good government and the reduction of taxation.

That it would use its influence to compel political parties to nominate their candidates at least thirty days previous to election day.

That in case suitable candidates are not nominated by other bodies, this association will nominate such candidates.

That to make the association more efficient, its membership shall be increased to ten for each ward, if practicable, so that the total membership shall not be less than 250.

That such increase be made upon the nomination of ten subcommittees of three members each. Some discussion ensued on the propriety of inviting members of general committees or ward associations to join the reorganized committee, but it was decided to leave this to the subcommittees. The subcommittees are as follows:

First, Second, and Third Wards, Loudivic Bennett, George L. Nichols, and J. R. Kennedy; Fourth, Fifth, and Eleventh Wards, H. Elliott, E. J. Whitlock, and H. M. Needham; Sixth, Eighth, and Twelfth Wards, J. H. Frothingham, Robert Johnstone, and G. B. Farrington; Tenth and Twenty-second Wards, S. N. Davis, William Coit, and James Eschwege; Seventh and Twentieth Wards, John W. Hunter, J. S. Sterns, and L. V. D. Hardenburg; Thirteenth, Fourteenth, and Seventeenth Wards, James Murphy, H. C. Boswell, and S. Kauffman; Fifteenth, Sixteenth, and Nineteenth Wards, George H. Fisher, Wm. Marshall, and George L. Fox; Eighteenth and Twenty-third Wards, Charles E. Hill, D. R. James, and William Adams; Twenty-first and Twenty-fourth Wards, William H. Hazard, Chas. Lowery, (vacancy;) Ninth and Twenty-fifth Wards, John French, R. W. Adams, and C. S. Baylis.

Directly on the completion of the increase in membership all the existing standing committees will be dissolved, in order that the new members may be represented on the committees. The report was adopted, and as soon as practicable, the One Hundred will become the Citizens' Reform Association of Two Hundred and Fifty. In order that the conditions of the new charter may be understood, a committee was appointed to draw up a synopsis of the bill for general circulation.

The inevitable bridge dispute was then brought up by Mr. Farrington, who offered a series of resolutions setting forth that the private stockholders were behindhand in the payment of the stock, some as much as forty per cent., while the city has paid in eighty per cent.; therefore the Committee of One Hundred request the Legislature not to amend the bridge charter, except to provide for a forfeiture of stock, the owners of which may be in arrears, and a further representation of the cities in the management. The resolutions also set forth that there was no reason to fear a stoppage of the work before the next session of the Legislature, and it would be preferable not to take hasty action in the closing days of the session.

Mr. McClean presented a preamble and resolutions, setting forth that as the Senate bill, providing for a fuller representation of the cities in the Board of Directors and the forfeiture of delinquent stock, has been amended by the Assembly so as to throw upon the cities the whole amount of stock, therefore the committee request Senators Murphy and Perry to oppose any amendment to the Senate bill. Mr. McClean's resolutions were adopted, and Mr. Farrington's were read, and after voting down the first and last sections, leaving comparitively little, the committee accepted them.

Controller Schroeder said that the amendment to the charter, reducing the private stock, was necessary for the proper continuance of the work. A motion to ask the Legislature to appoint a committee to investigate the bridge management was lost almost unanimously. It was asserted by some of the members that the investigations had not been sufficiently searching, but on the other hand it was shown that everything connected with the bridge management had been gone into.

The meeting then adjourned.

A New-York Street Scene.

It has long been an established fact that in this City a crowd can be gathered in the street on the smallest occasion, and very often it happens that groups of curious loungers suddenly assemble when there is really nothing to see. Let any one stop at a shop window with a friend, and stand there a minute or two, and he will find that his presence attracts others, who simply pause out of mere curiosity. This trait of City pedestrians is so well known among store-keepers that they occasionally seek to advertise themselves by getting up crowds in front of their premises. A few years ago a firm moved into a new building near the location of a rival in the same trade, and had recourse to a cruel hoax for advertising purposes. The manœuvre was simply to advertise in the papers for a light porter, and then lock the door, and hang up a huge placard bearing the words, "Situation filled." Of course a large number of applicants appeared, and, failing to get in, created a crowd, the numbers of which were soon augmented by pedestrians constantly stopping to view the curious scene. So great became the excitement that the police had to interfere, in order that travel might not be impeded. The result was that the change of base made by the firm became widely known, and their business increased.

It frequently happens, also, that practical jokers start street crowds simply for their private amusement, and the effort invariably proves successful. A case in point happened yesterday in Broadway, near Union-square. Two gentlemen, well known in New-York, were recently conversing on the subject of curiosity as an universal trait, when one, a wag in his way, offered to bet a supper that he could keep a crowd all day on the opposite side of the street on any clear day. The wager was accepted, the terms being that the crowd should remain in full force from 10 A. M. until 4 P. M.

Yesterday morning the practical joker stationed himself at a street corner at the hour specified, and at once apparently became interested in gazing at the clear blue sky overhead. He had remained thus employed scarcely three minutes before four or five other men were standing quietly by his side, all gazing wisely into the heavens. Finally one of them ventured the inquiry, what he was looking at.

"Why, at that star there," the joker replied, at the same time pointing into the sky near the sun.

"I don't see it," remarked the victim; "whereabouts is it?"

"Right up there," was the response. "It's very bright and beautiful."

"Oh, I see it," exclaimed a third person. "How singular it looks."

The trap being thus sprung, the crowd immediately became augmented, for all were curious to see the daylight star, which of course was invisible. Finding that the imagination of several people led them to believe that they actually did see the star, the practical joker quietly withdrew and joined his friend to witness the progress of the experiment.

Hour after hour passed, and still the crowd continued to stand at the corner, looking for the star, their individuality constantly changing, like the figures in a kaleidoscope. Few went away without becoming convinced that there was really a star to be seen, and even the gentleman who had accepted the novel wager was bitten by the common curiosity, and though he knew the joke, joined the group to look for himself. He in turn saw the star after gazing at the sun until he really could not see at all. So the fun progressed until the close of the day, the originator of the joke winning his wager by the crowd being kept up until near sunset.

There are a good many star-gazers in this world, as every one knows, but it seldom happens that they prove useful or profitable to themselves or anybody else. But two gentlemen had a very jolly supper last night at the expense of a star-gazer.

Probable Homicide in the Tenth Ward.

Frederick Eberhard and Henry Hestwick, residing in the basement of No. 195 Allen-street, quarreled about a trivial matter on Saturday night last, and finally came to blows. During a fierce fight Hestwick caught up an iron-bound wash-board and struck Eberhard on the head with the weapon. Citizens called in a policeman, who arrested both men and took them to the Eldridge-street Station-house.

Neither of the men appearing to be hurt, the Sergeant allowed them to leave the station-house and go home. Eberhard suddenly grew ill on Sunday, and yesterday became delirious. A police surgeon was summoned, who discovered that Eberhard's skull was fractured. The surgeon also declared that there was very slight hope of the man's surviving the injury. The Tenth Precinct Police are now hunting for Hestwick.

BROOKLYN COMMON COUNCIL.

The Water Board Budget—The Bridge Again Under Discussion.

The weekly meeting of the Brooklyn Common Council was held yesterday afternoon. The Board of City Works submitted an estimate of the expenses of the Water Department for the year ending April 30, 1874, of which the following is a recapitulation:

Salaries of commissioners, chief engineer, clerks, &c.	$47,775 00
Printing, stationery, &c.	5,000 00
Ridgewood engine-house expenses	118,631 75
Repairs to engines, fences, &c.	5,135 00
Smith's & Watts' pond	11,430 00
Prospect Hill engine-house and reservoir	9,705 00
Ridgewood reservoir	4,450 00
Ponds and conduits	12,550 00
Taxes	2,000 00
Distribution and repairs	98,194 00
Total	$314,870 75

The "budget" is $42,852 89 in excess of last year's expenses, but the increase is accounted for in the placing on this year's estimate $57 094 for the Surveyor's Department, which was provided for last year from the sale of bonds. The estimate was referred to the Committee on Water and Drainage.

A petition was received from Bedford-avenue property-owners asking that an ordinance be passed prohibiting the use of velocipedes on the avenue, as they are dangerous to travel. The corporation counsel was instructed to draft an ordinance prohibiting the use of velocipedes on the street in question between 9 A. M. and 8 P. M.

Resolved, That the members of the Legislature from Kings County be and hereby are requested to use their best efforts to defeat the amendments made in the Assembly to the Senate bill entitled "An act to amend the charter of the New-York Bridge Company," having for their object the acceptance by the City of the private stock and the appointment by the Mayor of a board of ten directors.

Alderman Ropes said that he could not see why the city should assume the work at this time. Of the private stockholders, Messrs. Murphy and Marshall had paid in eighty per cent., and all the others over fifty per cent., except Tweed, Sweeny, Connolly, and Hugh Smith, on whose stock only forty per cent. had been paid. The management had been fully vindicated; sufficient money was stated to be on hand to last for another year, and it would be better to wait until the expiration of that time before making a change.

Alderman Taylor said that he had heard the practicability of the bridge enterprise questioned; some of those connected with it had said that there was only one man in the world who could finish the bridge. The resolutions were finally adopted by 17 to 3. The following in connection with the bridge was also adopted:

Resolved, That the Controller be and hereby is instructed not to issue any more bonds to the New-York Bridge Company until all other subscribers have paid in an equal per centum with the City of Brooklyn on their several subscriptions according to law.

After transacting some further but unimportant business the board adjourned.

New Shawl Department at Lord & Taylor's.

Among the many improvements inaugurated of late by the firm of Lord & Taylor, Broadway and Twentieth-street, is the Indian shawl-rooms, which were thrown open to the inspection of the public yesterday. The main room has a frontage of 40 feet by 100 feet deep, and the inner room, or what may be more properly called the Indian shawl-room, is 40 by 20. It is fitted up in the most elaborate manner, the furniture being in light blue satin, with heavy gold mountings. The cornices are massive, and finished in gold, with blue satin lambrequins to match the furniture. On one side is a large mirror, with a beautiful frame of Grecian design. Two tables occupy the window recesses, and on them are two jardiniers. The woodwork of the room is painted white, arabesqued with gold. In the centre is a handsome chandelier, the light from which gives the entire room a beautiful appearance. At the end is a large glass-case in course of completion, which is to be used as a reserve for camels' hair shawls. The chairs and sofas are en suite. The carpet is a moquette, of a greenish tint, having a blue border. The stock of camels' hair shawls now on exhibition is one of the finest ever exhibited in this country. The prices are very reasonable, the stock having been recently purchased for cash on the most advantageous terms, from East Indian merchants trading in Cashmere and Calcutta, the great manufacturing cities of the East. They vary in price from $150 to $8,000 each. Yesterday a large number inspected the apartments, and expressed their pleasure at their appearance. The rooms being on the second floor, and near the elevator and staircase, access to them is easy.

The College of the City of New-York.

At a meeting of the Association of the Male Principals of Grammar Schools of the City of New-York, held recently, the following preamble and resolutions were unanimously adopted:

Whereas, We have seen, with surprise and astonishment, in a report of a committee of the Board of Supervisors, charges made against Prof. David B. Scott, Principal of the Introductory Department of the College of New-York, reflecting upon his integrity as a man, and the value and importance of his work; and,

Whereas, We, the members of this association, during our long and intimate acquaintance with Prof. Scott, have had abundant opportunity of knowing the purity and integrity of his personal character, his intellectual ability, and his conscientious devotion to his professional duties; and,

Whereas, In his career, both as public school principal and college professor, he has always manifested a fraternal spirit toward public school teachers, as a class, and has earnestly and effectively labored for their welfare and advantage; and,

Whereas, We regard the reputation of a teacher who has been so long, so closely, and so honorably identified with public education as a part of the common property of our profession, and as something in which we feel the deepest interest; therefore,

Resolved, That we, his life-long associates, do most heartily sympathize with Prof. David B. Scott, and reject as unworthy of belief the assertion that he has received salary without having rendered equivalent service, or that his duties have been a fiction in the responsible position he now occupies.

Resolved, That we hereby declare our unaltered confidence in his personal integrity, in his usefulness and fidelity, and that his record, which includes almost a life-time of labors and sacrifices in behalf of the public schools, entitles him to the friendly consideration of the whole community.

The Atlantic National Bank—The Case of Taintor.

In the United States Circuit Court, criminal side, yesterday, Judge Benedict delivered his decision on the motion to quash the indictment against F. L. Taintor, the defaulting cashier of the Atlantic National Bank. After reviewing the counts of the indictment and the objections raised by counsel for the prisoner, the Court held the indictment good, although it failed to set out the duties of the cashier and other matters, which were, however, covered by the bill of particulars. Mr. J. E. Burrill then moved the Court to set down another day for trial. The motion was founded on the affidavits of Messrs. Emmett, Sherwood, and Fisher, of counsel, and Mr. Lewis, which set forth that Taintor was not in a fit state of body or mind to instruct his counsel, or give them the necessary information to enable them to prepare for trial. Prisoner's affidavit stated that it would be necessary to examine books and documents in order to meet the charges in the indictment, and that his attention had been so taken up assisting the receiver and examiner to realize the funds of the bank, by giving them information and explanations, that he had not had sufficient time to devote to his counsel to help him to prepare his case. He further stated that he was so harassed by parties coming to him that he is not fit or competent to devote the attention to his own case that it deserves.

District Attorney Bliss read his affidavit in reply, which stated that it would not be necessary to examine the books of the bank, and went into an explanation of the entries which covered the embezzlement of Taintor, the whole of which entries did not extend over three pages. Affidavits of Messrs. C. E. Strong, receiver, and Mr. Meiggs, examiner, of the bank, were also read as evidence of Taintor's ability to instruct his counsel.

Dr. M. K. Hogan, the physician to United States prisoners in Ludlow-street Jail, testified to the good health and sound mental condition of Taintor.

Mr. Burrill stated that the District Attorney was urging on this case in order to make capital of the matter.

Mr. Bliss replied that he pressed this case because he did not wish the prisoner should escape like other bank criminals who had "gobbled" up the funds intrusted to them, and were not punished. He offered to send an officer with the prisoner to inspect the books and papers. The Judge said he would fix Monday next for the trial, but would take the affidavits and bill of particulars, and should he see sufficient cause would grant a further postponement.

Appleton the popular novels of Louisa Muhlbach, and wrote for several newspapers and periodicals. The testimony in the case went to show that on the 18th April Costamagna, who was Johnson's partner in business, went into the store of Carleton & Co. and offered for sale at $7 50 each two volumes of the Wilkie Gallery, valued at $30 each. The salesman's suspicions were excited, and he asked Costamagna how he had obtained them. The latter replied that he had received them from Johnson, to whom they had been given by the Messrs. Appleton in part payment of wages due. The salesman made inquiries at Appletons' and ascertained that the books had been stolen from the store, to which Johnson and Costamagna had access, and the men were subsequently arrested. Johnson was seen in Costamagna's company on the day in question, and waited outside while Costamagna attempted to dispose of the stolen property. The prisoner emphatically denied the charge in every particular and was acquitted.

Reported Poisoning of a Family in Jersey City.

For some time a German shoe-maker, Herman Boecke, residing on West Newark-avenue, near Grand-street, has, with other members of his family, been suffering from some disease the exact character of which the physicians have been unable to determine. Mr. and Mrs. Boecke and two or three children were ill, all showing the same unusual symptoms, which were to some extent those of poisoning, though they were not sufficiently developed to enable the physicians to decide their exact character. Finally a New-York physician was called in, and pronounced the disease to be intermittent fever. He was, however, unsuccessful in its treatment, and on Sunday the woman died, and the doctor gave a burial permit, stating the cause of death to have been intermittent fever. The body was, however, swollen and bloated, and those who saw it were of the opinion that other causes had been at work. Yesterday the attention of Coroner Reinhardt was called to the case, and he refused to allow the body to be buried until an examination had been made by Dr. Buck, County Physician, whom he notified. The examination will be made to-day, and the exact cause of death, if possible, determined.
